VOL. XVII. NO. 145. TOLEDO, OHIO, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1892. LAST EDITION. TWO CENTS.

IN THE BEE TO-DAY

WEATHER.

The storm central over the North Atlantic coast has moved northeastward, and is now over the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The low area storm over the extreme northwest has advanced to the eastward, and is central over northern Minnesota; it has increased in energy and magnitude, but as yet it has caused no change in the weather conditions.

The area of high barometric pressure has drifted to the south, and east and covers the entire country east of the Mississippi river and south of the lakes. A second area of high pressure is advancing from the extreme northwest.

The temperature has fallen over the southern states, Atlantic coast and the extreme northwest. It has risen or remained stationary in all other sections of the country. The temperature will fall over the west and northwest to-day and to-morrow, and will rise over the eastern half of the country.

A killing frost is reported from this and other stations around Lake Erie.

Light showers have fallen during the past 24 hours over the northeastern portion of the country; in all other sections the weather has continued fair. Light showers are probable over the upper lake region to-day, elsewhere the weather will continue fair.

Local forecast for Toledo and vicinity—On Thursday and Friday, fair and warmer. E. A. HANNER, Observer.

LORD TENNYSON,

The Poet Laureate of England, Is Dead.

His Advanced Age of 83 Years

Made His Battle Against Disease Futile.

Last Hours of England's Literary Pride.

Brief Sketch of the Life and Characteristics of the Man Who Is Known All Over the World.

London, Oct. 6.—Lord Tennyson died at 35 minutes past 1 o'clock this morning. His passing away was calm and peaceful. Sir Andrew Clark, who attended the poet in his last hours, said, in an interview with a representative of the International Telegram company, just after leaving the death chamber, that Lord Tennyson's end was beautiful.

"In all my experience," he said, "I never witnessed anything more glorious. There were no artificial lights in the chamber. All was darkness except for the silver light of the full moon which fell upon the bed and played across the features of the dying poet like the halo in one of "Rembrandt's pictures" "

Hallam Tennyson, the poet's son, said: "The end was beautiful, calm and painless. He passed away as if in sleep. The watchers could hardly distinguish the final moment."

Twice during the night the dying man smiled upon those around the bedside, indicating that he was conscious and recognized them, but he was too feeble to speak.

Lady Tennyson bears her affliction with a fair degree of fortitude, but is nearly prostrated by grief and fatigue.

Soon after the poet's death the sky, which had been clear, became clouded and the light of the moon was obscured. Shortly afterward rain fell heavily, and the scene contrasted strongly with that which had illuminated the parting hours of the great poet.

Sir Andrew Clarke, who had not left his patient's bedside for 24 hours previous, returned to London immediately after Lord Tennyson's death.

The last words spoken by Lord Tennyson were a few affectionate utterances addressed to his wife about an hour before his death.

Throughout his illness Lord Tennyson showed grateful appreciation of every kindness and attention extended to him. Until he became too feeble to speak he frequently thanked the doctors and nurses, as well as the members of the household who ministered to his wants. When the queen's telegrams of inquiry as to the sick man's condition were recived Hallam Tennyson read them to his father, who listened with evident pleasure. About 10:30 last evening the dying man swallowed with apparent difficulty some brandy and milk given to him by the physicians. This was the last nourishment he was able to receive. Thereafter he gradually grew weaker until the heart ceased to beat.

Tennyson's illness began on Friday. He has suffered from gout for several years, but the disease has not become acute until recently. The rapid development of influenza early in the week brought him to his bed on Friday. He was strongly opposed to yielding to the malady, as the special train which has for years conveyed him from Haslemere to the shore opposite his winter home on the Isle of Wight had already been ordered. He begged hard to be allowed to go, but Sir Andrew Clark and Dr. Dabbs told him that the journey could be made only at the peril of his life. In deference to this warning, as well as to the wishes of his invalid wife, Tennyson reluctantly consented to remain at Haslemere.

Just three months ago he had reached the good old age of 83, having been born on August 6, 1809. At that time and during a visit to London a short time before he was described as being in excellent health, and those who met him were struck by the vigor of the veteran poet. He spent his birthday on the Isle of Wight, and an English writer said of him: "Notwithstanding his years and the effects of a severe illness he had two or three years since, which seriously crippled his strength and energy, he enjoys excellent health. In fact, he is now seen more in the neighborhood of his estates than for many years past. In spite of his weight of years, the poet still covers a considerable distance every day, either across Blackdown of along the cliff walks at Freshwater Bay."

A peculiar interest was awakened at the time in the poet laureate's early years by the announcement that his birthplace, Somersby House, Lincolnshire, was for sale. It was here that the poet laureate spent his boyhood—in fact, the first 35 years of his life, though the house did not belong to Tennyson's family. In the fields around Somersby he received impressions that he gave to the world in his poetic works, and will continue to inspire successive generations. It should not be forgotten that three of Dr. Tennyson's sons became poets, and were it not for the greater fame of the laureate, his brothers, Frederick and Charles, would be more highly appreciated. Over sixty-six years have gone by, as Mr. Napier tells us in his recent book, "Homes and Haunts of Alfred, Lord Tennyson," since Messrs. Jackson, of Louth, purchased for the sum of £20 the manuscript of "Poems by Two Brothers," an enterprise which can hardly have made the fortune of the daring publishers. The two brother-poets, "in their joy spent their hard-earned money in a tour through Lincolnshire, inspecting the different churches, for which the county is so justly famous." At this time Tennyson was 17.

It was four years after that when Mr. Arthur Hallam, writing to Mr. Gladstone, said: "I hope you will buy and read Alfred Tennyson's poems," and hazarding the opinion that their author "promises fair to be the greatest poem of our generation, perhaps of our century." Very recently a single copy of the "Poems by two Brothers" fetched £15 in a sale at Sotheby's in London, which included an extensive collection of Lord Tennyson's poems. Other volumes sold were "Timbuctoo," £3; "In Memoriam" (three copies), £3 12s. 6d.; £3 16s., and £3 17s. 6.; "Idylles of the Kings," £1 19s.; "The Princess," £1 12s. while the poems of 1830, 1833 and 1842 brought £3 3s.; £15 5s.; and £2 respectively.

It was in 1872 that Tennyson purchased the small estate and residence where he is now a corpse. It is situated on the top of Black Down, that rises south of the town of Haslemere, near to the borders of the counties of Hampshire, Surrey and Sussex. A more bracing air than could be found at Freshwater during the heat of summer, and a retirement which it was difficult to secure at what was becoming a popular seaside resort, were the inducements for the purchase. It was built from the designs and under the superintedence of Lord Tennyson, by Mr. J. T. Knowles, the founder of the Nineteenth Century. Here and at Freshwater, the Laureate wrote "Maud" (1853); "Idylls of the Kings" (1859); "Enoch Arden" (1864); "The Holy Grail" (1870); "Gareth and Lynette" (1872); "Queen Mary" (1875); "Harold" (1877); "The Lover's Tale" (1879); "Ballads and Other Poems" (1880); "The Cup and the Falcon" (1884); "Beckett" (1884); "Tiresias and Other Poems" (1885); "Locksley Hall Sixty Years After" (1886); "Demeter" and "Robin Hood," the play recently produced at Daly's.

Perhaps nothing more interesting to the lover of Tennyson could be given to-day than a description of the Poet Laureate's life at Haslemere and Freshwater, as told by an English writer: "At Aldworth (Haslemere) the view presents one of the most lovely pictures of English rural life. From the house one can distinguish Prof. Tyndall's place, who, when planning its erection, arranged a window from which a view was obtained of Aldworth. The Tennysons and the Tyndalls are on intimate terms of friendship. The grounds of Aldworth are prettily laid out, but Tennyson, whose taste for flowers is not very pronounced, leaves their choice and arrangement to his daughter-in-law, who makes her home, with her husband, with Lord and Lady Tennyson. If Tennyson has any preference in regard to flowers, it is said to be expressed for the royal rose, whose bright pink shades are more easily discerened and appreciated by his dim and failing sight.

"As a rule, the poet and his family spend the summer months at Aldworth, and in October usually depart for Freshwater. At the latter place his favorite companion was the Rev. P. Haythornthwaite, the Roman Catholic priest. 'Father Peter,' as he is commonly called, is well known over the southern part of the island. He is extremely popular with all classes for his bonhomie, and is, besides, a scholar and a gentleman. Rarely a day passes but Father Peter pays a visit to the poet when he is staying at Farringdon house. The only event which draws Tennyson from his retirement is the annual Haslemere flower show, held in the middle of August in the lovely grounds of Mr. J. Steward Hodgson at Lythe hall.

"Tennyson had few dealings with the villagers, but there were a few of the older inhabitants with whom he was more or less friendly. One shopkeeper, who possessed a beautiful, old-fashioned garden with choice apple trees, often received the poet. When the apples were ripening he would go into the shop, and, shuffling through the garden, mutter: 'How's your apples?' Among his miscellaneous stock this tradesman kept a supply of 'yellow-back' novels, and at one time when a fresh parcel arrived the poet would hunt them over for 'something to read.'

"The poet's household consists of Lady Tennyson and his son and son's wife. Her ladyship is a confirmed invalid, and is but rarely seen outside the grounds. But, notwithstanding her physical ailments, her talents as a composer have been lately recognized in the musical settings of several of her husband's songs.

"Hallam Tennyson, the poet's son, is described as a fine specimen of the English country gentleman, and acts as his father's secretary and right-hand support. Tennyson rarely writes private letters now, and, practically speaking, leaves the whole of his correspondence to his son. However skillfully worded the epistle may be framed, the autograph hunter would miserably fail in his purpose, though only a few weeks since a local official was boasting that he held the poet's signature. It appears that he refused to give up a consignment of wine until Tennyson and Tennyson alone wrote his name as a receipt. Needless to say this is carefully and proudly preserved."

Recovered—sound health for every consumptive who hasn't delayed too long. There's a positive cure with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Just as it cures the worst of the many forms of scrofula, so it cures, and just as certainly, the scrofulous affection of the lungs that's called Consumption—through the blood.

But, even with this remedy, it won't do to wait. It can't make new lungs, but it can make diseased ones healthy when nothing else will. As a blood-cleanser, strength-restorer, and flesh-builder, there's nothing like it known to medical science. For Scrofula in all its forms, Bronchial Throat, and Lung affections, Weak Lungs, Asthma, Severe Coughs, and every disease that can be reached through the blood, it's the only remedy so unfailing that it can be guaranteed.

If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, you have your money back.

On these terms, it's an insult to your intelligence to have something else offered as being "just as good."

WILL GO HARD WITH HIM.

Aggravated Assault in a Virginia Town.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 6.—B. H. Hopkins, a Western Union telegraph lineman, who has been engaged in putting down a cable for that company in Berkeley, left his work last Friday and went to the house of a woman residing at Pointdexter place. She being alone at the time, opened the door and he entered. The brute seized the young woman and attempted to throw her down. She screamed and resisted vigorously, whereupon he tried to choke her into submission, but getting frightened after a tussle of several minutes, fled.

Detectives were put on the case yesterday, and in a short time he was arrested and brought before the young woman who positively identified him. He will have a hearing before the mayor.

NEWS FROM THE SOUTH

Americans Will Not Be Intimidated.

Bold Stand in the Case of Consul Hanna.

The Chicago and the Kearsarge Had Their Guns Trained on the Forts.

New York, Oct. 6.—A letter received here to-day from La Guayra, under date of September 28, says that upon the recommendation of Renjifro Palacio the Caracas government recently cancelled the exequatur of Mr. Philip C. Hanna, United States consul at La Guayra.

Minister Scruggs, however, called upon the president at once and protested against this action. He assured the government that Consul Hanna's action, at the time the other consuls were jailed at Pepper—to which Palacio appears to have objected—met with his full approval and that of the government at Washington. As a result of the interview the president directed the recall of the foreign minister's notice advising cancellation of the exequatur.

Consul Hanna and Secretary of the Legation Bartleman had a long conference on September 28 with Admiral Walker aboard the Chicago. It is understood that he notified the government that it must give 48 hours' notice to foreigners to get out of the place before firing a shot from Lavigia.

Both the Chicago and Kearsarge have their guns trained upon the fort, and its commander will hardly dare carry out his threat in the face of the American's warning.

It is reported that General Peraza, in command of the government fleet, recently sent an expedition against Naiguata. The warship Paparo, the first to reach the scene, commenced to shell the town. The peaceful people fled to the mountains, when the troops effected a landing and attacked the village, not even sparing the sacred relics of the local church. Helpless women and little girls of 10 were overtaken and assaulted by the half drunken soldiers and most terrible outrages of every kind committed.

In one instance a baby was torn from its mother's arms and its brains dashed out against the rocks. In another case an old man of 70 years had his ears chopped off and tongue cut out. The troops brought their loot to La Guayra and were allowed to offer it for sale.

FOUR WILL HANG.

Two Men and Two Women to Die.

Governor Tillman Refuses to Interfere and Will Let the Law Take Its Course.

Columbia, S. C., Oct. 6.—To-morrow will be harvest day for the hangman in South Carolina. Two murderers and two murderesses will leave this world by the rope route.

A fifth, Gus Deering, an Edgefield negro, who killed a fellow-workman, had his sentence commuted yesterday to life imprisonment.

Gov. Tillman has decided to let the law take its course in the case of Mildred Brown, a 13-year-old colored girl, who poisoned a white infant in Spartanburg. By refusing to interfere in the case of John Williams, a negro who killed Mayor Henneman, of Spartanburg, the governor has prevented a lynching, as a secret committee had made all arrangements to kill him the moment mercy was extended.

Amanda Tribble, a colored woman of Newberry, will hang for the murder of her own offspring. The other prospective victim of the hangman's noose is a white man, named Wm. Wilson, of Anderson, who murdered his wife about a year ago.

THE MORAVIA.

She Starts For Her Lock in Hoboken,

Thoroughly Cleaned and Again Ready for Business on the Ocean.

Quarantine, Oct. 6.—The Hamburg-American packet company's steamer Moravia, the first of the cholera infected vessels to arrive at this port, will be released to-day and allowed to go to her dock in Hoboken.

The steamer Moravia arrived in lower quarantine August 30 and remained there until September 20, when she was permitted to come to upper quarantine preparatory to the discharge of her cargo. The Moravia has been detained so long, and has been so thoroughly cleansed and disinfected that all possibility of infection has been eliminated. She is the first of the infected vessels permitted to proceed to the dock in Hoboken.

THE CONCORD.

She Will Be Ordered at Once to Venezuela.

Believed That Matters Are Reaching a Crisis in That Country.

New York, Oct. 6.—A special to the Herald from Washington says the Concord, which returned yesterday to Colon will probably be ordered back to Venezuela at once, as reports received at the state department indicate that matters are approaching a crisis in that country and that there is need for all three of Admiral Walker's fleet now in those waters.

DAN HOFFMAN KILLED.

While Duck Hunting He Meets His Death.

Celina, O., Oct. 6.—Daniel Hoffman, of Dayton, met his death on Lake Mercer. He was out duck hunting, and in company with a Mr. Sacksteder, were in a boat. Mr. Hoffman, while raising his gun from the bottom of the boat, accidentally discharged it, the load taking effect in the right side of his breast, passing entirely through the breast and causing almost instant death.

TO CELEBRATE.

Chicago, Oct. 6.—To-day is the anniversary of the landing in America of the first German immigrants, and by whom the town of Germantown in Pennsylvania, the first German settlement in America, was founded, and the residences and places of business of a large number of German residents are decorated in honor of the day. To-night there will be a great rally of German-Americans at the Auditorium, where appropriate addresses will be delivered and choruses rendered by the four Mannachor societies of the city.

MRS. GILMORE

Will Not Conduct Her Husband's Band.

New York, Oct. 6.—The widow of Patrick Sarsfield Gilmore will not be identified with the band made famous under her husband's leadership. To a reporter last night she gave her reasons for not taking this step. "Since my husband's death," she said, "I have received numerous applications by musicians here and elsewhere to be appointed leader of Gilmore's band.

"These persons no doubt thought I owned the band, but I have no ownership in it other than of the music in its repertory, which belonged to my husband, and is worth $50,000. While I have no doubt that Mr. Gilmore would have desired his band to continue after his death under his name, I do not think I ought to assume the risk of its management. I have therefore concluded that, under no circumstances, will I have any further connection with the band as manager or backer."

BIG MEETING.

Topeka, Kan., Oct. 6.—Anti-fusion or straight-out democrats are arriving here in large numbers preparatory to the meeting to-morrow for the purpose of expressing disapprove of the indorsement of the people's party ticket by the democracy. Some of those already on the ground say that fully a thousand representative democrats will be here to-morrow.

THE WESLEYAN CASE.

Cincinnati, Oct. 6.—The famous Wesleyan college case has been decided. The Browns have been ousted and the Rusts may now take possession of the institution. The decision was delivered orally, but in Judge Hunt's characteristic, lucid and deliberate manner.

SMOKING CIGARETTES.

New York, Oct. 6.—The Kinney cigarette factory at Tenth avenue and Twenty-second street was almost totally destroyed by fire at 5 o'clock this morning. Estimated loss $150,000.

LIVELY SKIRMISH.

The Mohican Chasing the Ainsworth.

The Sealer Did Not Want To Be Warned and Made a Good Fight.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 6.—The sealing schooner Willard Ainsworth returned yesterday from her maiden sealing cruise, which netted her 880 skins. The Ainsworth had an exciting brush with the United States steamship Mohican on May 25.

Last year the terms of the modus vivendi were that any schooner leaving port before the agreement had been made, and not being warned, could not be seized for taking seals in the Bering sea. Nearly all the schooners this year left port before the new modus vivendi had been signed, and did not know that it provided for seizure in the sea whether or not warning had been given. Consequently every schooner that sighted a man-of-war tried to get away to avoid warning.

On the day mentioned, when somewhere to the southwest of Middleton island, the Ainsworth sighted the Mohican, and clapped on all sail to escape. The cruiser gave chase and with steam and sail overtook her. When she was almost alongside the Ainsworth put about and got away some minutes before the Mohican could get around, but when she did, bore down on the schooner very fast.

The Ainsworth went about and got away again. The commander of the cruiser then evidently lost his temper, for a gun was run out forward. This time when she came within sailing distance she commenced blazing away. Five shots were fired and then Captain Cantillion concluded to stop. No damage was done to the vessel, as the shots whistled through the rigging, some of the crew narrowly escaping being hit.

Ensign Harrison, nephew of President Harrison boarded the schooner and served official warning to keep out of the sea.

KILLED BY THE MAFIA.

Does the Organization Exist In Chicago?

Chicago, Oct. 6.—Cologero di Martino's wife told Lieut. John Wheeler, of the Desplaines Street station, that her husband was killed in Louis Allegretti's saloon Sunday night by the Mafia.

Oscar Durante, editor of L'Italia, indignantly denies the existence of any such secret organiaztion in either America or Italy, and calls it a mere drunken row, of which no notice would have been taken had the actors been American born. A coroner's jury held Antonio Mersineo after listening to testimony yesterday.

FIFTY THOUSAND

Georgia Democrats Turn Out in Force.

People's Party and Republican Combine Only Served to Get Out the Vote.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 6.—Georgia elected a governor, state officers and a full general assembly. For governor and state officers there were two full tickets in the field, one of which is the straight democratic ticket and the other people's party and republican ticket, each nominated by the respective conventions of the two parties. The republicans nominated no state ticket, contenting themselves with placing a national electoral ticket in the field. The democrats carry the state by from 40,000 to 50,000 majority.

BEATEN AND ROBBED.

An Indianapolis Barkeeper Loses His Money.

Indianapolis, Oct. 6.—Charles Reiffel is a bartender for Mike Brown at 185 Indiana avenue. Reiffel sleeps in a room over the saloon. At 1 o'clok this morning his room was entered by a burglar, who assaulted Reiffel, robbing him of $365 in cash and some jewelry. Reiffel is pretty badly injured. Some time ago Reiffel had trouble with a man named George Whitman, and Reiffel claims that Whitman is the thief who robbed him. A man named Frank Guy has been arrested for complicity in the robbery.

IMPORTANT DECISION.

New York, Oct. 6.—In the suit of Congressman James Belden against ex-Judge Stevenson Burke and others, and the Columbus, Toledo & Hocking Valley railroad, which involves about $8,000,000, Justice Ingraham handed down a decision this morning, giving judgment for defendants.

Berdan & Co. are distributing an excellent specimen of a pocket memorandum, as a pusher for the Flutocrat cigar. The article is a neat and handy one.

Prof. Williams' dancing academy will open with a party for the season of 1892-3 on Friday evening, it being the occasion of the advanced class' gatherings, which will continue every Friday evening until May 26. Mr. Frank Kibbe is the instructor, and his abilities in this line are well known.

NOT ALL IN YET.

Back Counties to Hear From in Georgia.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 6.—Gov. Northen's official majority is now placed at 70,555.

CHOLERA IN NEW YORK.

A Case Reported to the Police of the Metropolis.

New York, Oct. 6.—Dr. Koertes, of 233 East Eighty-fifth street, at a late hour last night reported a supposed case of cholera to the police of the Eighty-eighth street station. The patient is James Finley, 27 years of age, of 229 East Eighty-fifth street. The case is being investigated by the health board.

KEROSINE EXPLOSION.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 6.—Mrs. Josephine Groll and her two children were badly burned by the explosion of a kerosine lamp in the apartments of Mrs. Groll, 11 Kossuth Place, this city, last evening.

THE WAR IS ON.

Hot Times on the Missouri River.

Nebraska and Iowa Are Watching the Progress of the Canal Diggers.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 6.—The bank of the Missouri river of the Nebraska shore for a distance of two miles in Oteo county is being patrolled by an armed sheriff's posse.

In addition to the warlike demonstrations the citizens of the entire western portion of the country are aroused. It is the result of the determination of the Iowa gang to complete the canal and change the channel of the river, which was stopped by injunction Saturday.

Ten hours of work will start the river into the canal and the gang appears to put this obstruction away. Last night the gang crowded the river in boats and one boat containing six men was captured. The men were carried to jail. They state their confederates are determined to cut the remaining obstruction. No shots were fired last night, but the people are terribly alarmed knowing that the gang occupy concealed places on the Iowa side ready to ride across the river the moment the guard is removed and start the waters across the Nebraska farms carrying death and destruction with it.

The prisoners will be subjected to violence by the excited citizens if the gang again appears.

COMMISSIONER PECK.

His Case Is Once More Postponed.

Justice Clute Reserves His Decision Until October 18.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 6.—Again in the criminal court of sessions was the Peck case delayed this morning, Justice Clute reserving his decision upon the granting of the demurrer filed by Mr. Peck's counsel until the 18th of the month. Labor Commissioner Peck appeared in court with his lawyer, Mr. Meegan, and assistant district attorney Cohn appeared for the people. Mr. Meegan made a long argument, but confined it chiefly to the point that original data obtained for the purpose of compiling a public document were not to be considered as public papers. The law imply gave to Mr. Peck instructions to present an annual report. It did not tell him to get it or give specific instructions to him to issue certain questions.

The original papers could not be considered public property and therefor he filed this demurrer against the indictment.

Mr. Cohn argued that the court could not consistently allow the demurrer to stand because it was evident that all papers asked for under the seal of a public office were certainly public papers. Both counsels cited long and numerous authorities to uphold their arguments.

Justice Clute said that the question was an important one and he would reserve decision until October 18.

THE AMERICA CUP.

Earl Dunraven Wants Some Noteriety.

Be Has Challenged the New York Yacht Club and a Meeting Will Be Held.

New York, Oct. 6.—A special meeting of the New York Yacht club has been called for October 18 at which the preliminary challenge, received yesterday from the Earl of Dunraven, to sail for the American cup, will be considered. If the challenge is accepted it is said the earl will build a new boat to conform with the conditions of the deed of gift.

Business Men of the States Are Taking a Deep Interest in the Movement.

Boston, Oct. 6.—Lieut. E. A. McDonald, an ex-alderman and well-known business man of Toronto, has been in Boston for several days on an important mission in connection with the annexation movement on the other side of the line.

The formation of the North American Union league, whose object is the bringing about of political union between the United States and Canada by peaceable and legitimate means, has been one result of his visit.

The league was started by former residents of Canada in this section, but it is intended to embrace all classes throughout the country.

The business men of Boston are shortly to hold an important conference at which Lieut. McDonald's case will be discussed in its various phases and the plan of operations definitely outlined.

SIX HUNDRED KILLED.

Desperate Battle Fought Near Caracas.

Many Government Officials Captured.

Crespo Reported To Be Ready to Move on the Big City in a Few Hours.

New York, Oct. 6.—A private dispatch from LaGuayra, Venezuela, received here this morning says: "A deperate battle has just taken place at Los Teques, a small town on the railroad line to Valencia, equal distant between that place and Caracas.

Six hundred men were killed and many high government officials captured. Crespo has struck another decisive blow which, following his previous successes, means victory for the Crespists. Crespo has announced his determination to enter Caracas to-morrow.

REAL ESTATE MEN.

Last Day of the Session in Buffalo.

A Milwaukee Delegate Loses His Diamonds and Cash.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 6.—This is the last day of the real estate convention and much business remains to be done. The all-absorbing topic, however, continues to be the place for the next convention and the future officers of the association. Denver has taken a spurt and is a dangerous competitor for the honor this morning. Detroit is still in the first rank and has the support of Cleveland and many of the eastern cities. The northwestern combination is working hard for St. Paul, but do not seem to be making many converts.

For president of the association, Treasurer W. B. Cutter, of Buffalo, appears to have the largest following, and for secretary there is little opposition to Assistant Secretary J. C. Barthelf, of Milwaukee. These two questions will be settled late this afternoon just before adjournment. The unit rule had been adopted by most of the delegations.

The Milwaukee delegates, together with a few from Nashville, St. Louis, Louisville, Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth, are arranging for a trip east from Buffalo after the convention closes. They will go by special train through New York state, stopping at all principal cities, then to Boston. From that city they will go along the coast, taking in New Haven, Providence, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Richmond and back to Pittsburg. It is expected the trip will take about two weeks and that over 100 delegates will participate.

It was a little after 10 o'clock when the delegates assembled for this morning's session. There was a change in the program. Ex-Gov. Hubbard, of Texas, who was to have read a paper on "Our Changed Commercial Relations," had found it impossible to attend and his place was filled by R. S. Myers, editor of the Chicago Real Estate and Building Journal, who read a paper on "Alien Land Law Legislation," and was followed by Hon. A. S. Clyne, of Nashville.

A paper on "Titles and Transfers," by J. Craddock Simpson, of Montreal, was next read and then the convention took up matters of business. Nominations were declared in order, and it was voted that nominating speeches be limited to three minutes. Col. Turner of Chicago nominated Wm. B. Cutter, of Buffalo, for president, amid great applause. H. C. Hill, of Buffalo, and Mr. Warren, of Detroit, seconded the nomination, and it was made unanimous.

Contrary to expectation O. W. Crawford of Chicago, was the only nominee for secretary, and Mr. Matt, of Nashville, was the only one for treasurer. Nominations for board of control were also made and recess was taken.

W. A. Meyer, of Milwaukee, a delegate to the real estate convention, who with his wife occupies rooms at the Iroquois hotel, was the victim Tuesday night of a clever sneak thief who stole from his rooms $1,000 worth of diamonds and $250 in money. Mr. Meyer reported his loss to the police, but the thief has not yet been found.

FOUND HIM GUILTY.

George W. Delamater Is Convicted.

He Received Deposits in His Bank When He Knew It Was Insolvent.

Meadville, Pa., Oct. 6.—The jury in the Delamater cases found a verdict of guilty as to George Wallace Delamater, and not guilty as to G. B. Delamater and T. A. Delamater.

G. W. Delamater was in court room without flinching. The defense will move for a new trial, and failing to obtain it, will carry the case up on the question of the constitutionality of the act of 1889, and their numerous exceptions taken to the court's ruling. The verdict meets with general approval.

The charge upon which ex-Senator Delamater is convicted is statutory embezzlement; that is, the firm received deposits in their bank, knowing themselves to be insolvent.

WANTED HIS MONEY.

Boston, Oct. 6.—A Newport, R. I., special to the Herald says that F. P. Garreton, a grocer, sent a sheriff last night to the residence of Mrs. Paran Stevens and seized her horses and carriages for debt, and that in view of the fact that Mrs. Stevens is in Boston where her mother lies dead, the action of the tradesman will be severely censured.

END OF THE GANG.

The Daltons Have Raided Their Last Bank.

Citizens of Coffeyville Were Weary of the Work

And Brought Them Down With Winchesters.

The Robbers Were Game to the Last.

Boldest Attempt at Holding Up a Bank That Has Ever Been Known in the History of the Country.

Coffeyville, Ks., Oct. 6.—The Dalton gang has been exterminated—wiped off the face of the earth. Caught like rats in a trap, they were shot down, but not until four citizens of this place yielded up their lives in the work of extermination.

Six of the gang rode into the town Wednesday morning and robbed the two banks of the place. Their raid had become known to the officers of the law, and when the bandits attempted to escape they were attacked by the marshal's posse.

In the battle which ensued four of the desperadoes were killed outright, and one was so badly wounded that he has since died. The other escaped, but is being hotly pursued.

Of the attacking party, four were killed, one was fatally and two were seriously wounded.

The Dead.

BOB DALTON, desperado, shot through the head.
GRANT DALTON, desperado, shot through the heart.
EMMETT DALTON, desperado, shot through the left side.
JOSEPH EVANS, desperado, shot through the head.
JOHN MOORE, "Texas Jack," desperado, shot through the head.
T. C. CONNELLY, city marshal, shot through the body.
L. M. BALDWIN, bank clerk, shot through the head.
G. W. Cubine, merchant, shot through the head.
C. J. BROWN, shoemaker, shot through the body.

Wounded.

Thomas G. Ayers, cashier of the First National bank, was shot through the groin and cannot live.

T. A. Reynolds, of the attacking party, has a wound in the right breast, but it is not considered necessarily dangerous.

Lais Detz, another of the attacking party, was shot in the right side. His wound is a serious one, but is not fatal.

Warning of the Raid.

It had been rumored a month ago that the Dalton gang was contemplating an immediate raid upon the banks of the city. Arrangements were made to give them a warm reception, and for over a week a patrol was kept night and day to give warning of the gang's approach. The raid did not take place, and then came the report from Deming, N. M., that United States officers had had a battle with the band in that territory, and that three of the gang had been killed.

This report is believed here to have been circulated by the Daltons themselves, the intention being to divert attention from their real intentions, and to lull the people of the town into a sense of security.

The people, however, were not so easily deceived, and when the report of the disaster to the gang in New Mexico was denied vigilance was renewed. Still the expected raid was not made.

Finally the patrol was withdrawn last Saturday, although every stranger was carefully scrutinized as soon as he appeared on the streets. It was 9 o'clock Wednesday morning when the Dalton gang rode into town. They came in in two squads of three each, and passing through unfrequented and deserted streets all rendezvoused in the alley in the rear of the First National bank.

They quickly tied their horses, and without losing a moment's time proceeded to the attack upon the banks.

Robert Dalton, the notorious leader of the gang, and Emmet, his brother, went to the First National bank, the other four, under the leadership of "Texas Jack," or John Moore, going to the private bank of C. M. Congden & Co.

In the meantime the alarm had already been given. The Dalton boys were born and bred in this vicinity, and were well known to nearly every man, woman and child in town. In their progress through the town they had been recognized.

City Marshal Connelly was quickly notified of their arrival, and almost before the bandits had entered the bank he was collecting a posse to capture them if possible; to kill them if necessary. He ran first to the livery stable of Jim Spears, a dead shot with the Winchester and a valuable man in any fight.

Then he summoned George Cubine, a merchant, Chas. Brown, a shoemaker, John Cox, express agent, and other citizens who could be conveniently reached.

Stationing them about the square which both of the banks faced, he hastened to augment his posse by summoning other citizens for impromptu police duty.

While the marshal was collecting his forces the bandits, all ignorant of the trap that was being laid for them, were proceeding deliberately with their work of robbing the banks. Texas Jack's band had entered Congdon's bank, and with their Winchesters leveled at Cashier Ball and Teller Carpenter, had ordered them to throw up their hands. Then Texas Jack searched them for weapons while the other three desperadoes kept them covered with their rifles. Finding them to be unarmed Cashier Ball was ordered to open the safe.

The cashier explained that the safe's door was controlled by a time lock, and that it could not by any means short of dynamite be opened before its time was up, which would be 10 o'clock or in about 20 minutes.

"We'll wait," said the leader, "and he sat down at the cashier's desk.

"How about the money drawers?" he asked suddenly, and jumping up he walked around to the cages of the paying and receiving tellers and taking the money, amounting in all to less than $300, dumped it into a flour sack with which he was supplied, and again sat down while the time lock slowly ticked off the seconds and the hands of the clock tardily moved towards the hour of ten.

Bob and Emmett Dalton, in the meanwhile, were having better luck at the First National bank. When they entered the bank they found within Cashier Ayers, his son Albert Ayers, and Teller W. H. Shepperd. None of them were armed, and with leveled revolvers the brother bandits easily intimidated them. Albert Ayers and Teller Shepperd were kept under the muzzles of Emmett Dalton's revolvers, while Bob Dalton forced Cashier Ayers to strip the safe vault and cash drawers of all the money contained in them and placed it in a sack which had been brought along for that purpose.

Fearing to leave them behind, lest they should give the alarm before the bandits should be able to mount their horses and escape, the desperadoes marched the officers of the bank out of the door with the intention of keeping them under guard while they made their escape. The party made its appearance at the door of the bank just as Liveryman Spears and his companions of the marshal's posse took their positions in the square.

When the Dalton brothers saw the armed men in the square they appreciated their peril on the instant, and leaving the bank's officers on the steps of the bank building ran for their horses.

As soon as they reached the sidewalk Spears' rifle quickly came to position. An instant later it spoke and Bob Dalton the notorious leader of the notorious gang, fell in his tracks, dead.

There was not a quiver of a muscle after he fell. The bullet had struck him in the right temple and plowed through his brain and passed out just above the left eye.

Emmett Dalton had the start of his brother, and before Spears could draw a bead on him he had dodged behind a corner of the bank and was making time in the direction of the alley where the bandits had tied their horses. The shot which dropped Bob Dalton aroused "Texas Jack's" band in Congdon's bank, who were patiently waiting for the time lock of the safe to be sprung with the hour of ten. Running to the windows of the bank they saw their leader prostrate on the ground. Raising their rifles to their shoulders they fired one volley out of the windows.

Two men fell at the volley.

Cashier Ayers fell on the steps of his bank shot through the groin.

Shoemaker Brown of the attacking party in the square was shot through the body. He was quickly removed to his shop, but died just as he was carried within.

The firing attracted the attention of Marshal Connelly, who, collecting more men for his posse and with the few which he had already gathered, ran hurriedly to the scene of the conflict. After firing their volley from the windows of the bank, the bandits, appreciating that their only safety lay in flight, attempted to escape. They ran from the door of the bank, firing as they fled.

The marshal's posse in the square, without organization of any kind, fired at the fleeing bandits, each man for himself. Spears' trusty Winchester spoke twice more in quick succession before the others of the posse could take aim and Joseph Evans and "Texas Jack" fell dead, both shot through the head, making three dead bandits to his credit.

In the general fusilade which followed Grant Dalton, one of the surviving members of "Texas Jack's" squad, Marshal Connelly, George Cubine and L. M. Baldwin, one of Congdon's clerks, who was out collecting when the attack was made, were mortally shot and died on the field. Allie Ogee, the only survivor of the band, succeeded in escaping to the alley where the horses were tied and mounting the swiftest horse of the lot fled south in the direction of the Indian territory.

Emmett Dalton, who had escaped from the First National bank, had already reached the alley in safety, but he had some trouble in getting mounted, and Allie Ogee had already made his escape before Emmett got fairly started. Several of the posse anticipating that horses would be required were already mounted and quickly pursued the escaping bandits.

Emmett Dalton's horse was no match for the fresher animals of his pursuers. As his pursuers closed on him he turned suddenly in his saddle and fired upon his would-be captors.

The latter answered with a volley and Emmett toppled off his horse hard hit. He was brought back to town and died late yesterday afternoon. He made an ante-mortem statement confessing to the various crimes committed by the gang of which he was a member. Allie Ogee had about ten minutes start of his pursuers and was mounted on a swift horse. At 5 o'clock last evening he had not been captured.

After the battle was over search was made for the money which the bandits had secured from the two banks. It was found in the sacks where it had been placed by the robbers. One sack was found under the body of Bob Dalton, who had fallen dead upon it while he was escaping from the First National bank. The other was found tightly clenched in Texas Jack's hands. The money was restored to its rightful owners. The bodies of those of the attacking party who were killed were removed to their respective homes, while the bodies of the dead bandits were allowed to remain where they had fallen until the arrival of the coroner from Independence, who ordered them removed to the court house.

There he held an inquest, the jury returning a verdict in accordance with the facts.

The inquest over the bodies of the dead will be postponed until the result of the pursuit of Allie Ogee is known. During the time the bodies remained in the square they were viewed by hundreds of people of this and surrounding towns, who, having heard of the tragedy, came in swarms to inspect the scene. The excitement was of the most intense character, and the fate of Allie Ogee, should he be captured, was determined by universal consent. He will be hanged by the people.

The other topics which attracted universal comment were the fulfillment of the prophesy that the Daltons would "die with their boots on;" the peculiar fate which had decreed that they should die by the hands of their old friends in the vicinity of their place of birth, and the excellent marksmanship of Liveryman Spears, who with three shots sent death to as many bandits.

THE DALTONS.

A Sketch of the Lives and Bloody Deeds of the Notorious Bandits.

The Daltons were a numerous family. There were five boys and three girls. Of the boys two are engaged in farming, one in Oklahoma, where the mother of the family lives, and one near Coffeyville, where three of the brothers met their death. The Daltons were second cousins of the noted James boys, who defied the law in Missouri for so many years, and through them were related to the Younger brothers, who are now serving life terms of imprisonment in the penitentiary of Minnesota. Bob Dalton was the first of the boys to enter upon the career of crime. While he was scarcely more than a boy he became a cattle thief, and did a thriving business driving off cattle from the herds on the Cherokee strip and taking them across the Indian territory into Colorado, where he would sell them. He was joined soon after he entered the business by his brother, Gratton Dalton.

Their depredations became so frequent and troublesome that the cattlement organized to drive them from the strip. A posse of cowboys was formed for that purpose and gave the Daltons a hard chase, finally losing them in the wilds of New Mexico. The next heard of the Daltons was in California, where they took to train and stage robbing. While robbing a stage there one of the passengers was killed in the attack. This spurred the officers on to extraordinary efforts to effect the capture of the gang and Grat Dalton was finally captured. While being taken to a place for safekeeping he was rescued by the other members of the gang, the whole party finally escaping after being chased in California and through a good part of Arizona.

In the spring of 1889 the gang turned up again in the Indian territory when Oklahoma was opened to settlement, the Dalton boys securing a choice claim for their mother near Hennessy, where she still lives supported by one of her sons. At the time of the opening Bob Dalton was a United States marshal, being selected on account of his peculiar fitness to deal with desperate characters. After the opening he returned to his life of outlawry and he and Grat were then joined by their brother Emmet, the youngest of the brothers. They were at that time also joined by Texas Jack, and soon gathered about them several desperate characters. It was then that the most successful period of the Daltons' career, from their standpoint, began. Their attention was first directed to the robbing of express trains, and they perpetrated many successful "hold-ups," the most noted of which are the robberies of the Santa Fe at Wharton and at Red Rock, the Missouri Pacific at Adair, and the Frisco near Vinita.

The Wharton robbery was perhaps the most dramatic of all. The robbers went to Wharton on horseback, and entering the station there asked the operator if the train was on time. He replied that he would enquire, and was about to do so when one of the band, fearing that the operator had recognized them, shot him dead upon the spot without a word of warning. When the train arrived it was held up after the regulation manner. After the pursuit of the robbers which followed, outlaw Ed Bryant was captured at Enid by Deputy United States Marshal Ed Short, known throughout the entire territory as a most brave officer. Short placed his captive in a baggage car of a Santa Fe train to take him to Guthrie. He had disarmed him, placing his brace of revolvers on a convenient trunk and had placed the desperado in irons. When the train reached Adair Short disembarked to send a telegraphic message. When he re-entered the car Bryant had secured one of his weapons and holding it in his manacled hands, fired, mortally wounding Short. The officer, however, had strength to seize his Winchester and pump four bullets into Bryant's body, expiring as he pulled the trigger the last time.

There were no fatalities attending the Red Rock robbery, but the Adair robbery resulted in the deaths of two men. The express car was guarded on that occasion and a hot fight took place between the guards and the robbers. The place where the train was held up was in the midst of the town. One stray bullet passed into the room of a physician, and striking the physician in the head, killed him instantly. Another physician, who, hearing the firing, had run in its direction was also shot and killed.

The last train robbery by the gang was that of the Frisco near Vinita. The amounts secured by the robbers in their various raids will probably never be known. It was very great, however, and has been estimated at $300,000. After the Frisco robbery the Daltons seem to have diverted their attention to the robbery of banks. They rode into El Reno one day and attacked the only bank in town. The only person in the bank at the time was the wife of the president, who fainted at the sight of the ugly revolvers.

The bandits leisurely took all the money in sight, and remounting their horses rode away. This raid netted them $10,000, which was such a sever loss to the bank that it was forced into liquidation. To-day's was the next and last raid of the gang, and with it ended the existence of a band equaled only in the desperate character of its undertakings by the James and Younger bands.

TO OUT-DO THE JAMES.

Such Was the Ambition of the Dalton Gang.

Coffeyville, Kas., Oct. 6.—Emmett Dalton made the following ante-mortem statement last night:

"October 1, 1892, I met the boys south of Tulsa and they asked me how much money I had. I told them about $20. I asked them how much they had and they said about $300. I asked them what they were going to do with it. They said that this town had been trying to capture them. I said that was a lie, for we used to have lots of friends here.

"Bob said he could discount the James boys' work and go up and rob both Coffeyville banks in one day. I told them that I did not want any of it at all. He said I had better go along and help and get some of the money and leave the country; that if I stayed around here I was sure to get caught or killed by myself.

"The morning of October 3 we saddled up north of Tulsa, in the Osage nation, and rode 20 miles toward Coffeyville and talked the matter over. I went out of love for my brothers, for I knew that the authorities would get after me anyhow and I would have no money to get out of the country.

"We camped at the head of Hickory creek at Limber Hill, about 12 miles from Coffeyville, the night of October 4. That night we saddled up and rode to the bottoms of Onion creek on the Davis farm and yesterday morning we fed our horses some corn. I asked the boys if they were coming up here. They said that they were, and I said it would not be treating you right, as you had always befriended us.

"I asked them how they were going to do the business. Bob said we would ride in about 9:30. He said there would not be many people in town so early and not many to hold up. He said he wanted me to go because I was quick on foot. He said that I would go to the —— National and let the boys go to Condon's. He said we would ride in and hitch at the old Condon building. People would not see us until we got right into the banks. All five horses belong to Bob. I am a full cousin to Bob and Cole Younger. My mother was a sister of Cole Younger's father."

He confessed that the gang was responsible for the Red Rock, Wharton, and other train robberies in Indian territory which had been credited to them. The story of hidden treasure he said was nonsense. "If there had been a hidden treasure," he said, "we would all have been alive to-day. It was because we were all 'broke' that we planned the Coffeyville raid. We were being pressed hard by the officers down in the territory when Bob decided that we would have to get out of the country."

IN THE FAR WEST.

The Daltons Were Well Known on the Coast.

San Francisco, Oct. 6.—The Dalton gang, which were exterminated yesterday, were only too well known in California. William Dalton lived five years near Livingston, Merced county, where he married the daughter of a farmer. He was frequently visited by his brothers, Grattan, Robert and Emmet.

Grattan Dalton first became notorious by his connection with the robbery of a train at Alila, January 6, 1891. William Dalton was arrested in connection with the crime and taken to Visalia, where information was received leading to the arrest of Grattan Dalton a few days later.

The Daltons were tried at Visalia and Grattan was found guilty. During the trial Grattan attempted to shift the responsibility of the affair upon his brothers, Robert and Emmet. He was taken to jal to await sentence and afterward escaped, accompanied by two other desperadoes. The Southern Pacific company offered $3,000 for Dalton's capture and strenuous efforts were made to secure him dead or alive, but without success.

COLUMBIAN CELEBRATION.

New York, Oct. 6.—The various committees having charge of the arrangements for the Columbian celebration of next week are holding daily meetings, and satisfactory progress is reported in all directions. Many firms have already commenced the work of decorating their buildings. Already it is impossible to reserve quarters at any of the hotels, large or small, the invariable answer being returned that their facilities are more than overtaxed for next week. A quarter of a million strangers are expected.

TO FILL THE VACANCY.

Columbus, O., Oct. 6.—S. H. McDowell, the republican candidate for presidential elector in the Twelfth district, who was found to be ineligible because a national bank cashier, sent his resignation to the state republican committee and that committee at once called the congressional committee together at Cleveland to fill the vacancy.

A MISTAKE.

Easy to Make, But Serious In Its Consequences.

Thrilling Details of a Remarkably Narrow Escape.

May Be a Surprise to Some, But a Wholesome Lesson to All.

A mistake.

Did you ever think, or do you fully realize what a mistake may mean?

The engineer makes a mistake in the signals, and the train, freighted with its hundreds of lives, is dashed to destruction; the pilot makes a mistake in his location, and the ship is wrecked upon a hidden and dangerous reef; a doctor makes a mistake in diagnosing the disease, and while treating the wrong affection, allows the real disease to gain headway, and perhaps become incurable.

A mistake is often fatal.

A friend of the writer, a most estimable lady by the name of Miss E. A. Durell, who lives at Sandwich Centre, N. H., came near being the victim of a mistake of the above character.

She fell very ill, and her trouble was pronounced first one disease and then another, she, meanwhile, growing constantly worse.

In speaking of her affection, she said:

"For years I was troubled with weak nerves and a bad stomach affection.

"Some called it heart disease, others congestion of the liver, and others still malaria, inflammation of the stomach, etc.

"I was confined to my bed, could keep nothing on my stomach, and ached so intensely all through the system that life was almost unendurable.

"Then I took Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

"The result was truly marvellous. From the first dose I date my improvement. I am now in better health than for years previous.

"Words are inadequate to describe the wonderful curative properties which this remedy possesses. I am satisfied that the majority of ills can be cured by this excellent remedy. I deem it the best of all medicines."

Miss Durell got well, as she says above, and as the writer well knows by at last getting the right remedy, but how many people make a mistake in regard to their complaints and continue to treat the wrong disease. If a medicine does not make you better after a fair trial of it, you can depend upon it that you are treating the wrong disease.

You cannot afford to make a mistake in regard to your health, and if you have been using medicine or medicines which have made you no better, stop them at once and do as Miss Durell did, use Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

This remedy will cure when all others fail, and Miss Durell's statement and opinion above expressed—that it will cure the majority of ills—is borne out by both fact and experience. It does cure. And it cures the very worst cases, too, cases that have defied the skill of many eminent physicians, and where the cause of the disease was unknown or very obscure.

All ordinary affections yield like magic to its wonderful restorative effects. It is purely vegetable and harmless, and can be purchased at any drug store for $1.00.

You will make no mistake if you use this remedy, for it is not a patent medicine, but on the contrary is the discovery and prescription of the eminent Dr. Greene of 35 W. 14th street, New York well known as the most successful specialist in the treatment of nervous and chronic diseases, who can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

AUSTRIA WON.

Vienna, Oct. 6.—The last of the German long distance riders arrived at Florsdorf at 8 o'clock this morning, being Lieut. Baron Litzenstein. His time was 73 hours and 20 minutes. This settles the contest in favor of Austria, Lieut. Count Starhemberg having covered the distance from Vienna to Berlin in 71 hours and 35 minutes.

A RARE OPPORTUNITY.

Foreign investors have poured their money into America, realizing the richness of our resources and the profits to be derived from investing here. Americans have at last awakened to the fact that we have some of the richest fields for investment known to the world right here in our midst, and shrewd ones are availing themselves of this knowledge. One of the best investments that has recently come to light in the Seven Stars Gold Mine of Arizona. In addition to all the ore it has already produced, several millions are now in sight and each day adds to its richness. So certain is this mine in its possibilities, that a voluntary offer has been made to guarantee an annual dividend of 15 per cent. for five years, depositing proper stocks or bonds for that purpose. The opportunity for securing this investment expires October 6. The headquarters of the company are at 41 Broadway.

Fifty Dollars in the Firemen's Fund.

Yesterday's mail brought to the address of Secretary Larkins of the Toledo Fireman's Relief association, a letter from O. A. Walker, clerk of Delta, inclosing a check for $50, in recognition of the valuable services of the Toledo fire department in fighting the disastrous fire which occurred at that place some time ago.

Shortly after the fire the mayor of Delta called upon Chief Wall for the purpose of compensating the department for their work. The chief declined with thanks, informing the gentleman that the service was rendered with good will and that Delta was under no obligation to Toledo whatever. This was followed by a series of resolutions adopted by the Delta council expressing the appreciation of the favor extended. Now comes the check for $50, which the boys are compelled to accept, and they know how to appreciate the gift.

Bishop Horstman in Court.

In common pleas court to-day, Ignatius F. Hortsman filed action against Margaret Howard, widow of Patrick Howard to foreclose a mortgage, on lot 33, subdivision of Daniels' addition, in his title as bishop of the diocese.

Big Mortgage Filed.

A mortgage of gigantic proportions was filed at the recorder's office yesterday afternoon. It is given by the G. H. Hammond company to the Central Trust company of New York, to secure the issue of debentures, amounting to £340,000, or $1,500,000 in United States money.

Hocking Valley Officials.

C. C. Waite, president of the C., H. V. & T. railroad, arrived in the city from New York last evening, accompanied by a party of 10 eastern capitalists interested in the road. They left this morning for a trip over the C., H. V. & T.

$10,000 Wall, According to a Suit.

A suit was filed in common pleas court to-day growing out of the reconstruction and improvement of the brick building on Summit street, between Adams and Madison, adjoining Rudolph Meyer's saloon, owned by Louis Hoerr. The owner contracted with Carl Schmuhl to repair the building. In excavating for a cellar at the rear the wall of the Meyer building adjoining gave way. Meyer now demands $10,000 damages.

Divorces Granted and Filed.

In common pleas court yesterday Judge Lemmon granted divorces as follows: Anna Wicks from Geo. L. Wicks; Emma Gordon from Frank Gordon; Samuel T. Richards from Ellen Richards.

To-day applications for divorce were filed as follows:

Louise Franke from Theodore Franke; Mamie Fielding from William H. Fielding.

Railroad Damage Suit on Trial.

The case of Anna Eagon, administrator of the estate of her husband, Daniel H. Eagon, deceased, against the Lake Shore Railroad company is on hearing before Judge Pugsley in common pleas court to-day. Eagon was killed at Air Line Junction in 1890 by being run over by a Lake Shore locomotive. Mrs. Eagon sued the company to recover $10,000 damages. The case was tried during the September term of 1891, and the jury failed to agree.

An Address at the High School.

Bernard Bigsbey, a graduate of Oxford, and a lecturer, addressed the pupils of the High school at the High school hall yesterday afternoon on "The Construction of Language." He comes and goes, lecturing in schools and colleges, rather unceremoniously, is a powerful and gifted speaker and in many respects a learned man. Twelve or fifteen years ago he addressed the teachers of the High school and three or four years since he talked to the High school pupils. He is always entertaining, and his address yesterday was interesting as well as instructive.

POLICE CLERK'S REPORT.

Moneys Received and Distributed to the Various Funds.

The report of Police Clerk Leibius for the month of September shows that $492.46 was collected in city cases as fines and costs. Of this amount $90.54 went to the police pension fund; $84.62 to the retreat fund; $10 to the Humane society, and $307.30 was deposited with the city treasurer.

The fines and costs collected in state cases amounted to $231.60, of which $20.32 went to the police pension fund; $5 to the Humane society; $5.62 to the Law Library association, and $191.66 was deposited with the city treasurer.

HOT FIRE ON DORR STREET.

A Livery Barn Gutted and Adjoining Property Partially Burned.

Shortly after 4 o'clock this morning flame swere discovered in the livery barn of Walsh & Kirchner, at 1270 Dorr street. The fire department arrived on the scene as soon as possible, but got there too late to save the barn, which was entirely destroyed. Three horses, seven buggies and one carriage and a quantity of hay, etc., were burned with the barn. The loss on the stable and contents is about $3,000, which is covered by insurance.

Mr. Kirchner was sleeping in the barn on the second story at the time the fire broke out, and in jumping from the burning building broke his leg.

A shoe shop owned by John Braunschweke and also a tin shop owned by John Jacobs, adjoining the livery, were partially destroyed. The origin of the fire is unknown.

MARKETS TO-DAY.

The receipts of wheat at Toledo are 70,878 bu. in excess of 1891. Our analysis of receipts at seven points show 300,227 bu. in excess of this Thursday in 1891, and adding an estimate of St. Louis receipts, say 100,000 bu., it is 400,000 bu. in excess of last year. The movement of northwest wheat to-day is 82,006 bu. in excess of 1891.

The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 625,130 bu., and at five other western points 575,262 bu.; total, 1,200,392 bu. On the corresponding Thursday in 1891 the receipts at the same points, deducting for one day's receipts at Chicago, were 900,165 bu., including 543,124 bu. of northwest wheat, leaving as the movement at five other western points 357,041 bu., compared with 575,262 bu. to-day. The receipts to-day do not include St. Louis; holiday there.

Export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were, wheat, 172,980 bu. and flour to an aggregate of 415,000 bu.

Opening report of London wheat market was a shade better. Liverpool dull. The export clearances are light to-day and we do not hear of other price influences. It is a quiet, hesitating time. The market at Chicago is held within narrow limits by the instrumentality of puts and calls, which are on sale in every town out of Chicago.

The wheat market has fluctuated but slightly and in favor sellers.

Corn is about steady. Trading in both are reported as limited.

In New York October wheat closed at 79 1-8c; December at 81 7-8c, and May at 88 3-8c, a gain of 3-8c. October corn at 51 1-4c; May at 54 1-4c, a gain of 1-4c. October oats at 35 7-8c, a loss of 1-8c.

In Chicago October wheat closed at 74c; December at 76 5-8c, and May at 82 1-8c, a gain of 1-4c. October corn at 43 3-4c, and May at 48c, a gain of 1-8c; October oats at 31 3-8c, a loss of 1-8c.

In Toledo the trading in wheat, cash and futures, has been about the lightest of any day on the crop.

Prices were maintained and close 1-4 to 3-8 higher; December opened at 77 1-2 and closed at 77 5-8; May at 82 3-4 and closed at 83.

Cash wheat was decidedly dull. No. 2 soft small sale at 74 1-2, closing with buyers; No. 3 soft at 68 and 68 1-4 D. & M., closing at 68; No. 4 soft at 63; rejected No. 1 at 66; No. 2 at 52; No. 2 hard at 70; No. 3 at 65; No. 2 white at 73.

Corn No. 2 at 45; No. 3 at 44; No. 3 yellow at 45.

Clover seed was quite active and advanced in all positions. Prime for cash at 6.50; October at 6.45 to 6.50; November at 6.45@6.52 1-2; December at 6.50 to 6.60; January at 6.70; March at 6.77 1-2; No. 2 at 6.30 to 6.35.

The Haidah Indians, of British Columbia, gamble with sticks of spruce wood, about five inches in length, carved or stained with totemic devices. The game is played by any number of persons. A "dealer" sits on the ground, with a pile of shredded cedar bark in front of him, and with much ceremony draws out the sticks, one by one, without looking at them, and passes them to the players in turn, who sit in front of him. Each device counts a certain number, and the winning is by high or low, or definite or specific amounts.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Floyd Street Paving.

Sealed proposals will be received by the undersigned up to 12 o'clock at noon of Monday,

THE 17TH DAY OF OCTOBER, 1892,

for improving Floyd street from the paving in Warren street to the paving in Fulton street by paving the central twenty-two feet thereof with Trinidad Asphalt, laid on a foundation of hydraulic cement concrete, together with the necessary grading, curbing, drainage, etc.

The contractor or contractors who shall do the work herein provided for shall be paid in cash within ninety days after the completion of the work and acceptance thereof by the city.

All bids must be written with ink and the price of each item shall be written in full as well as in figures. Each bid must contain the full name of every person interested in the same. All parties filing bids for the matters specified in this notice must deposit with the city clerk on each bid the sum of One Hundred and Fifty Dollars. All deposits to be in cash or certified check on a bank doing a regular banking business in the city of Toledo, and accompanied by an agreement signed by the bidder and two disinterested persons, guaranteeing that, if the bid is accepted, a contract will be entered into—otherwise the amount deposited to be forfeited to the city; and in case a contract is entered into, said deposit to remain until the first estimate of work done, (or double the amount of deposit,) is reported to the common council.

Bidders will be required to indorse their names on the outside of the envelope containing their proposal, and what the bid is for, the same to be filed with the city clerk. Bids not filed in accordance with the above requirements will be rejected.

Blank bids and envelopes can be obtained of the undersigned or of the city civil engineer.

Bidders must specify the time within which they will commence and complete the work after the acceptance of their bid.

Plans and specifications can be seen at the office of the city civil engineer.

The council reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

By order of the council.

Seventeen hundred is the nominal republican majority in the Ninth district, but not for Mr. Ashley. Byron Ritchie can turn the majority over to the democratic column.

The Faribault school plan about which so much was said and which was taken to the Catholic See for settlement has been defeated by the majority vote of Faribault.

With every paper of every party in every state crying out against the infamous gerrymander and every orator denouncing it, the wonder is by whom, and by whose consent, is the disreputable work done.

Speaking about gerrymanders, why not ask the supreme court of Ohio to nullify the congressional gerrymander of last winter? Very likely the republican partisan court would sustain the partisan act, but the republican organs might display a spasm of virtue by starting a case.

Chicago has been called the Garden City, the Windy City and now it objects to the "Terra-cotta" City. If it persists in its determination to put hotel fare up to $30 a day and cab fare to $22 a day during the dedication ceremonies, it will stand a chance to get named "the Hog City."

Brazil is the great cry of the protectionists. "See what Blaine's free-trade patch on the high-tax bill, known as recoprocity, has effected." And some cold-hearted digger of facts presents official figures to show a greater yearly increase of trade with Brazil before the McKinley monstrosity was accomplished.

Ben Butterworth can get out of his tortuous tariff wilderness by way of Blaine's reciprocity gate. Mr. Blaine says protection is made too much of and reciprocity slighted, by the republicans, in the present campaign. B. B. will help out a little in his speeches. It would be unkind to greet him in Toledo, with extracts from his denunciations of high tariff taxation. Out of true politeness the Bee refrains and bids the versatile Butterworth "sail in," (in defense of the free trade patch on the McKinley law.

Last week a white man was lynched, in East Tennessee, for perpetrating a dastardly crime upon a defenseless woman. Yesterday a negro was lynched for a like offense. He confessed his deed and was dispatched by a crowd of one hundred determined men. The first instance was scarcely mentioned in organs that seek to make political capital of every occurrence, but the latter case will be made the subject of orations and the text for editorials by those who seek to stir up a race war for the politics there is in it.

The New York Tribune made the boast that "Sheep vote in Vermont." The decrease in the number of sheep accounts for the slump in the vote at the late election. In 1850, there were 1,014,122 sheep in the state; in 1870: 580,347; in 1889: 362,312. Thomas Dolan, president of the manufacturers' club and the largest buyer in the United States, said a year ago, that a decline in prices was distinctly promised by the protectionists during the framing of the wool schedule. And yet the wool growers cannot see and understand.

Russia has not been kind to us. She sent us the mysterious and malevolent grip, the ravages of which are yet apparent. Patients, apparently recovered, lapse into nervous prostration, which in many cases dvelops slowly into a type of insanity, the more harmful that it is insidious and unsuspected, in many cases, until business, home and family suffer from its freaks and vagaries. Then she exported the cholera to us with hordes of emigrants driven from her borders. And what the cholera will do for us, another year must determine. There is well-founded apprehension that it is destined to bring us wide-spread disappointment and disaster.

Dudleyism is still rampant. In the state of Illinois, circulars are being sent to postmasters asking the names of all Germans, irrespective of party. The chairman of the state committee writes: "This is a matter of vast importance and we desire to impress upon you the necessity of prompt action." The plan is to pour out the corruption fund liberally to to hire Germans who would vote the democratic ticket to stay away from the polls. The use of the postoffices and postmasters to boom Wanamaker's hymn book, cheap pants and interfere with independent voters is not quite in line with the civil service pledges of the administration. The scheme was exposed by an indignant postmaster.

THE SCHEME IN FULTON.

The secret of the congressional convention manipulation of Brailey and Touvelle is out. This brace of politicians purpose using Gov. Ashley very much as the republican committee in Lucas county did two years ago. Brailey is the republican candidate for auditor, with poor personal chance for election. He and Touvelle will urge the use of much Ashley money on the sand hills of Fulton and Mr. Brailey will profit from the hurrah, even if Ashley shall be dumped. This is the program. It worked successfully in Lucas, why not in Fulton? The Governor is a good milker.

HAVE YOU HEARD FROM GEORGIA?

Democratic majority at state election in Georgia yesterday only 70,555. No slump in that vote.

THEY DON'T CONSIST.

"A cheap coat makes a cheap man."—Harrison in 1890.

"There never was such a time for bargains in coats."—Harrison in 1892.

"Cheapness is akin to nastiness."—McKinley in 1890.

"It (the tariff tax) has made things cheap, and that was our intention."—McKinley in 1892.

"Who cares for a cent on a tin cup?"—Cullom in 1890.

"A cent saved is a penny earned."—Cullom in 1892.

GREAT SCHEME.

Editor Nixon, of the Chicago Inter-Ocean, fixed up a lovely campaign scheme like this: A bright young Irishman named Patrick Grant was to be sent to England to "view with alarm" the damage done to British trade by the McKinley bill. He was to stuff this into the English papers wherever he could, clip it and send it home as English opinion, to influence votes for the high protective tariff. And this was to be supplemented by his own testimony to the "fact" that all Britishers were working for Cleveland's election. A letter in President Harrison's hand writing, indorsing the scheme has been produced and all the plans were perfected. At the last moment they snatched the plum away from Patrick Grant and offered it to another, and Patrick naturally took his revenge by giving the whole thing away. And the sanctimony of the presidential deacons and hymn book compilers who are conducting the republican campaign from their United States offices in Washington! It is a spectacle for heathen gods and little fishes.

PROVES TWO THINGS.

The Toronto Empire puts aside its advocated trade policy (protection for Canada to retaliate on the United States) to boast of the thrift of England's working people "in spite of many adverse industrial conditions." It says:

There is now accumulated in the government savings banks of the United Kingdom the vast sum of £122,524,000. To this is to be added, according to a return just issued by the chief registrar of friendly societies—an official to whom all classes of such societies are compelled to make returns—the further amount of £90,338,237, making a total of over a billion of dollars. And yet enthusiastic republican spirits of the United States will stand up to argue that the laboring men of Great Britain are losing faith in monarchical government. On the contrary, they entrust it with all their savings."

The Empire credits their thrift to a monarchical form of government and by "adverse industrial conditions" means no interference with trade by tax or governmental manipulation. American politicians can draw their own conclusions. The fact seems to be plain that England is sufficiently democratic to afford honest industry a good chance for accumulation, and leads all the protected monarchies of Europe in the well-being of its laboring population.

TENNYSON IS DEAD.

A great light has gone out of the visible world of mankind. The Poet Laureate of England has laid down his pen forever. "Finis" is written on the last page of his rythmic music. His has been a long, full, successful and happy life. When they came to him with a man-made title, fine natures said, "take it away, it only dims the luster of his name." Such fame is vouchsafed but few mortals. Many of us with gray hair on our temples, learned our first school-day recitations from his poems. He has sung for us well nigh the century through. His days were spent in the midst of as lovely scenes as Nature ever sketched and colored. Steeping his mind in old tales of romance and imagination, he peopled a new world with his characters which have become living and human because they were typical of love and life in all ages and all climes. He had the gift of music; he chose poetic subjects and clothed them in graceful and beautiful imagery. It is easy for critics, not overly fine-strung and sensitive to the touch of harmony upon the delicate ear, to call such gift "a sort of practiced word carpentry," but those who feel the witchery and spell of the music will never abide the cold analysis, and pulse-feeling of the poet's wrist to note if his mood be inspirational.

A great singer indeed shall have arisen, when "In Memoriam" is no longer the noblest poem in the language. What brows are waiting for the laureate wreath? English literateurs will ask. Who will sing the songs that reach the heart and the understanding as he has sung them? is the question of the reading world.

But Tennyson is not dead, nor will he die while the language of poesy lives. His earthly tenement is deserted—

Life and thought have gone away
Side by side,
Careless tenants they,
Leaving door and windows wide.

* * *

Close the door, the shutters close,
Or thro' the windows we shall see
The nakedness and vacancy
Of the dark, deserted house.

* * *

All within is dark as night,
In the windows is no light,
And no murmurs at the door
So frequent on its hinge before.

Yet the poet himself is at fault. Out of the dark, deserted house there shines a great light, he himself set in the window when he wrote of—

That God, which ever lives and loves
One God, one law, one element
And one far-off, divine event
To which the whole creation moves.

ROUSING MEETING

Of the International Association of Machinists.

There was a splendid attendance at the meeting of the International Association of Machinists last night, four members being initiated, and three applications received.

On next Tuesday evening, the grand foreman of the association will be in the city, and a reception and open meeting will be held in his honor.

Not only machinists, but members of every trade, or profession are cordially invited to be present.

It is hoped to have a regular mass meeting of not only members of trades unions but of all workingmen.

The exercises will consist of speeches by the grand foreman and local labor leaders.

The hall has not yet been decided on, but Central Labor union hall will probably be engaged.

PLAIN AND REASONABLE.

The democratic position is so plain and reasonable that he who reads may understand it. It believes that the true and constitutional purpose of a tariff is the raising of necessary revenue for the support of the government—and that is all.—David B. Hill.

PIONEER DEAD.

St. Marys, O., Oct. 6.—Nicholas Brewer, one of the oldest pioneers around here, died suddenly last night of heart disease, aged 80. He is an ex-commissioner and has resided in the county 56 years.

SAFE ARRIVAL

In Port of the Schooner N. C. Ryan.

The Steam Barge Nashua Thought To Be Foundered Off Goderich—First Mate Carr's Story.

Captain C. D. Miller and First Mate R. P. Carr of the schooner N. C. Ryan, which arrived in port this morning, related to a Bee the following account of the loss of the steambarge Nashua, off Goderich, Tuesday morning:

On Sunday morning the steambarge Nashua, with lumber, cleared from Bing Inlet with the schooner N. C. Ryan of Sandusky, loaded with lumber, in tow.

Both boats were heavily laden, but with fair weather everything was smooth sailing until after they left Cove Island, at 9 a. m., when a stiff breeze sprung up, which increased in violence until 2 o'clock Tuesday morning, when the gale became simply terrific, the sea running high and the atmosphere freezing. About this time a faint whistle was heard from the Nashua which was a signal to cut loose.

The schooner let go at once, but could not get close enough to the barge to find out the difficulty.

They kept her in sight until 7 o'clock the next morning, when she disappeared.

The Ryan then hoisted a signal of distress which was answered by the Gratwick, which was at once sent after the missing boat, but no traces of her has yet been found.

The only signs of the wreckage seen by the crew of the Ryan was lumber in the water which looked as though it had been thrown from the boat.

The only clew to the trouble is that the high sea must have flooded the barge and extinguished the fires.

The Nashua had on board a crew of 15, including wives of the captain and first mate.

The Ryan was laden with lumber for Merrill Ring of this city.

The crew think their escape from a watery grave little less than miraculous.

THE MARSH LANDS.

Shall They Be Turned Into a Park?—What is Being Done.

Mayor Emmick and Commissioner Wade, accompanied by Superintendent Kern, yesterday examined the marsh lands from Elm street to the northerly outlet at the bay. Mr. Kern made a rough survey and pronounces tthe tract as being just the thing for a mammoth park. Nature has done much for the property, and with a dredge and other appliances the unsightly swamp lands would soon become a place of beauty.

There are about one thousand acres of this low land, and enough groves and high land for all practical purposes. The examination yesterday was largely to see what could be done. Most of the property might be utilized, but the question of expense will determine future action. Should a fair price be made by the owners, it is not unlikely a bargain would be struck.

Fifteen additional teams were placed on the Ketchum farm by contractor Sacks this morning, and the work of grading is progressing very satisfactorily, with a full force. Mr. Kern has his surveys and plans well under way, and hopes, under the direction of the park commissioners, to give Toledo a system of parks to be proud of.

Stone is being delivered for the lower Summit street river front, and will be laid as soon as possible. It is expected that the planting of trees and sodding, together with the terracing of the property can be accomplished before the cold weather comes on.

East Toledo park projects are being considered by a committee, and action will probably follow.

CORBETT'S CHUM,

Charles McCarthy Used to Lick Jim in School.

Charles McCarthy, the comedian who has become rich out of One of the Bravest, is $7,000 ahead on the Corbett-Sullivan fight. But that isn't the only reason he feels good over the result. Corbett and McCarthy were both born in Frisco and have been chums since their boyhood. They attended the same school and like all school boys, used to have their own quarrels, and whenever they settled their disputes "Mac" invariably "licked" Corbett, and in a day or two they would be as good friends as ever.

In a letter from McCarthy to a Detroit friend he says he don't believe he would care to attempt to lick Jim just at present.

McCarthy owns a cottage at Asbury park, which is about one-half mile from where Corbett had his training quarters, and the comedian, who, by the way, is to appear at the People's next week, was a constant visitor to Corbett's place. It was no uncommon thing for him to take daily runs with the new champion and to go through nearly all the methods of training adopted by Corbett. The latter, it seems, had kept himself posted on John L.'s peculiarities and was on to his curves and weak points and it was a part of his training to practice just what to avoid and where to land when he did meet the big fellow. The sequel shows that his judgment was correct.

When the two friends meet there will be great times, as it is said neither indulges in "booze," they will have to cement their friendship with a wild cherry phosphate or orange and lime juice.

RAILWAY CONDEMNATION.

Probate Jury Finds Damages and Compensation.

The jury in the Canada Southern railroad condemnation suit, which was on hearing in probate court for several days this week, reported a verdict this morning, fixing the compensation and damages for property appropriated. The suit was brought by the railroad company to get possession of a strip of land on both sides of the track extending the length of the trestle work, near the asylum. This trestle is to be filled, and the strip of land appropriated is needed to build the embankment upon.

The property owners hotly contested the appropriation. Emery D. Potter, jr., represented the railroad company and Messrs Everett, Tolerton & Raymond the property owners.

The property owners are W. J. Williams, Catharine K. Donaldson, George P. Davenport and Irving B. Hiett. Alexander Arnold owns a lease on property effected, upon which he operates a brick yard.

The jury awarded the property $312 damages and $2,500 compensation, and the lease owners $1,650 damages and $425 compensation.

PIPE LINE TAXES.

Wood County Was After Toledo.

Now Toledo Is After Wood County and Trouble Imminent.

Attorney George Bassett went to Bowling Green to-day, where he will file a petition in common pleas court of Wood county, asking the court to issue an injunction, restraining the treasurer of that county from collecting taxes assessed upon the Toledo gas pipe line.

The auditor of that county fixed the valuation of the pipe line and equipment in that county at $103,000.

On this amount he assessed $1,382.21 taxes and passed the same to the county treasurer for collection.

The injunction is prayed for on the ground that under a recent act of the legislature natural gas pipe lines necessary machinery and equipment necessary for the operation of the same, owned and controlled by municipalities are exempt from taxation.

POSTOFFICE FIGURES.

What They Show for the Month of September.

The total number of pieces of mail matter handled at the Toledo postoffice for the month of September was 2,483,320, of which 1,546,640 pieces was matter of the first-class, and 938,680 was matter of all other classes.

The number of errors made in handling the mail as stated was 127, being 93 errors made in handling matter of the first-class and 30 errors made in handling matter of all other classes, making the number of pieces handled in matter of the first-class one error to each 16,630 pieces handled correct, and one error to every 31,289 pieces handled correct in all other classes. The percentage correct on all classes of mail matter handled during the month was 99-99.

There were nine case examinations held in the month of September, in the distribution and dispatch of mails department, in which there were 13,998 cards representing postoffices handled, of which number 13,925 cards were handled correctly to routes, making the percentage correct 99-47.

The number of errors made by the patrons of this office during the month of September was 1,812, and which was disposal of as follows: First-class matter—Returned to sender 617 pieces; corrected and forwarded 213 pieces; wrong address, sent to dead letter office two pieces; insufficiently addressed, sent to dead letter office five pieces; illegible address, sent to dead letter office four pieces; held for postage 225 pieces; total pieces of this class, 1,066. Matter of all other classes as follows: Returned to sender 339 pieces; corrected and forwarded 100 pieces; held for postage 307 pieces.

A DRUNKEN BRUTE.

Who Needs to Be Locked Up—His Children Turned Out in the Street.

Humane Officer France was this morning called to the corner of Fifteenth and Wabash streets, where a man named Miller lives with his four children. He has six children, but two of them are with relatives.

Mrs. Miller died about a year ago, and Miller has had things about his own way since; his way being to take every cent that he earned himself, and also the wages of his oldest boy, and spend it in drink. He would then abuse his family, and only last week put them all out doors at night, and they found shelter at a neighbor's.

The oldest boy is 14 years old and is bright and industrious, but his father takes his wages to spend for liquor, and both the family and the neighbors are becoming tired of the way he carries on.

Last night he drove one of the neighbors, who had come in to show the second oldest boy how to cook a little supper, out of the house.

Mr. France will try and get the two youngest children into the Lucas county home, and the two boys say they can look out for themselves.

Miller will probably be locked up.

A RICH MINE.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

Monthly Meeting of the Toledo Association Wednesday Afternoon.

At room 9, Fort Industry block, the Toledo Woman Suffrage association held its first session of the season, since its summer adjournment, yesterday afternoon. A large and intelligent audience were attracted by the proceedings, which were as follows:

Consideration of a proposed amendment to the National American Woman Suffrage constitution. The secretary was instructed to write the views of the meeting to Mrs. Foster Avery, of Philadelphia, secretary of the national organization.

The woman suffrage convention held at Washington in September last was brought to the notice of the meeting. Petition work for federal suffrage was referred to the Ohio state executive committee.

Notice was given of a district convention at Akron on the 18th inst., under management of Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton: also of the woman's congress at Memphis, Tenn., November 15, 16 and 17. The proceedings of "Woman's Day" at Hiram college, August 10 last, were reviewed, and their educational influence pointed out.

The visiting committees to the Toledo police matron gave their monthly reports since June. The ladies comprising these committees were: Mrs. Cravens, Mrs. Harmon, Mrs. Pelton, Mrs. Morgan, Mrs. Ward, Mrs. Pomeroy, Mrs. Bissell, Mrs. Fray, Mrs. Segur and Mrs. Cole. All agreed that noticeable improvement is manifest in the care given women and children at the station. Several ladies thought the matron needed an assistant, and that monthly reports of her work ought to be published. Mrs. Cole spoke of the management of the Lucas County Children's home, which she considered humane and kindly. Also of the flag presented by Toledo and Maumee people to the home on July 4, and of patriotic exercises by the children when it was raised on that day.

Mrs. M. B. Eck gave the treasurer's report, showing a credit balance of $50.

Three new members were admitted.

Mrs. E. R. Collins gave a voluminous home report of the work of women in industrial and educational advancement.

Mrs. E. S. Fray gave a similar foreign report, concluding with personal observations made during her recent visit at Toronto.

The Woman's Enfranchisement society of that city had not held a meeting in two years, because its president, Mr. Hughes, had not called a meeting. Mrs. Fray persuaded its lady members to depose their president and hold regular meetings. She also related the enterprise of Canadian women as school trustees.

Tributes of respect were paid to the memory of J. G. Whittier, G. W. Curtis, friends of woman's rights, and to Mrs. Ernestine L. Rose, one of the pioneer advocates of equal rights for women, who died recently in London. Mrs. Rose visited Toledo during the forties as the guest of the family of Hon. Richard Mott, and addressed Toledo's first literary organization, known as "The Young Men's association." She was a Polish lady of fine culture and intellect, the daughter of a Jewish rabbi. Her portrait graces the walls of the Toledo Woman Suffrage hall.

A committee was appointed to wait upon the common council and urge the completion of promised repairs in the detention room for women at the police station.

Many matters of special interest to women were incidentally discussed during the proceedings. The meeting adjourned to the first Wednesday of November.

COMMON PLACE.

Between two powerful forces fixed
Slow moves my life from day to day.
To draw me to itself would one;
The other, loath, woos me away.
That force which draws is my desire;
It shows me pleasure's airy maze.
This which attracts is duty's power;
That o'er my fluttering soul yet sways.

What good is choice? When that I choose,
This, still more powerful, drags me back.
From this I flee, and that I hate
Binds me more firmly to the rack.
And am I free who neutral here
Between the two still hold my course?
Not what I will, but what I must,
I do. Have I no power, no force?

My colorless, dull-tinted life
Is never dyed in pleasure's blue,
Nor by stroog duty's higher touch
Transmitted to some purer hue.
But harder still they bind me down,
My soul resigns herself to power,
And, poised resistless 'twixt the two,
Slow moves my life from hour to hour.
—Esther Louise Camp in Springfield Republican.

WHAT WE CAUGHT.

It was in the latter part of September that Ben Clark and myself started off for the lakes on a fishing excursion. On our way up, and after we had left the settlements of men behind us, we met Whit. Greeley, and we tried to persuade him to go with us; but he said he had other fish to catch than trout. Whit. was at that time sheriff, and a very excellent officer he made.

When we asked Whit. what he was doing so far away in that dreary section, he told us that he was on a very particular business, and then he went on to explain. Two notorious scamps, named Aaron Grow and Jack Walrus, who had been guilty of almost every conceivable crime, had been lately engaged, in different parts of the country, in robbing and stealing, and issuing counterfeit money. Whit. had gained a pretty clear description of their persons, and was now on their track. He knew that they were desperate fellows, and he told us that he should be very cautious. He believed that they had taken their course up that way somewhere, being probably bound for Canada.

It was late in the afternoon when we reached the lake where we had planned to commence fishing, and we were fortunate enough to find an old camp in pretty good order.

On the following morning, after we had eaten breakfast, and stowed away the few things which we were forced to leave in the camp, we shouldered our poles and started for the nearest lake, where we caught a few respectable trout; but as they they did not bite to our satisfaction, we concluded to try the next lake above. We had found a boat, and in this we set off, and by the middle of the afternoon we were gloriously at work with hook and line. But our sport was destined to be soon interrupted. Ben had just lost a large trout from his hook when the water was suddenly ru ed by a spit of wind, and our boat started off from the fishing ground. In a few moments more it grew dark from great clouds which had come up over the mountains, and the wind commenced to blow furiously. Our camp happened to be directly in the "wind's eye," and as the power of the gale increased, we found that we were not only gaining no headway, but that we were in danger of being swamped.

There was no time for considering. To row the boat against such a wind was simply impossible; so we headed her for the nearest point of land, which we reached in safety; and just as we had got out and drawn the boat up on the shore, the rain began to descend in torrents. We were at least five miles from the camp, with no clear path open to us. But we determined to make the best of it.

We had been an hour and a half on foot; night was closing in upon us thick and black; and yet we had not made over half the distance from our place of landing to the camp. By and by we came to a little open space by the lakeside, where we found an enormous hollow log, with the larger end toward the shore, while the other end was elevated upon the sloping bank. The moment Ben saw this log he stopped. He got down upon his knees and examined the inside, and by the next gleam of lightning he was enabled to see that the hollow was spacious and dry; and, thereupon, he settled down and informed me that he was going no further.

"It's no use," he said. "I can't go any further."

With this he crawled up into the log, and when I found that he was determined to stay there I turned my face once more toward the camp. Ben offered to make room for me in his retreat, but I didn't want it.

In 10 minutes after I had left my fat and weary companion the night had wholly come, and it was only by the occasional flashes of lightning that I was enabled to find my way. However, I kept on, and at the end of three hours I gained the camp. I crawled to the further corner of the wigwam where my bed of boughs was, and threw myself down to rest. I was just dozing when I was aroused by the sound of footsteps upon the dead boughs at the entrance of the camp, and as my first impression was of Old Ben, I started to a sitting posture, when the tones of a strange voice fell upon my ear There were two newcomers, and as I listened I quickly discovered that they were both strangers to me.

There is no need that I should try to give their conversation. Suffice it for me to say that they spoke freely, and that I thus gathered all I wished to know. They were Masters Aaron Grow and Jack Walrus—the two villains of whom my little Dutch Cheese, the sheriff, was in quest. They had been dodging about, knowing an officer was upon their track, and were only anxious to make their way to Canada. They were pretty well worn with fatigue, and they resolved to have a nap. After this I heard them crawl up towards the side of the camp, and ere many minutes they were snoring right lustily.

What should I do? I lay back upon my couch to think. My senses gave up to the fatigue that was upon me, and I fell asleep. When I awoke it was from being aroused by a crackling of the boughs at the entrance of the hut, and I started up and saw a man standing in the doorway. In another moment I knew him. That short, dumpy, Dutch form was not to be mistaken for anything else that I ever saw. It was Whit. Greeley. I started to my feet and hurried towards him.

"Ha—you're here, are ye?" he said, as he saw me.

"Hush!" I whispered, seizing him by the arm, and drawing him away from the camp. How came you here?"

"How came I here?" he repeated, seeming to be puzzled by my manner.

"Yes," said I.

"Why—I came from the last house on my feet. But I'll tell you plainly: I learned, last night, that my two rogues were in the woods somewhere hereabouts and I tried to get some of the hands at the dam to come up with me, but they were not willing. Then I happened to think of you. I believed I should find you at this camp, and I started for it. Now, where's old Ben?"

"Never mind about old Ben," said I. "There's somebody else here you'd like to see?"

And then I told him what had transpired during the night. I led him softly into the hut, and showed him the two men lying there.

Whit. could see by the moonlight that they were the chaps he was after, and he gave utterance to a very strong exclamation of satisfaction. He had his handcuffs with him, and he proposed that we should iron them while they slept. He showed me how the things worked, and I helped him—I took one while he took the other. It was a very simple matter—just close the iron carefully upon one wrist, then lift the other over upon the breast, place it by the side of its mate, clap the shackle under it, close it quickly, a sharp click of the spring, and the work was done.

In half an hour it was daylight, and pretty soon thereafter Old Ben came puffing up from the lake.

We ate our breakfast and then set off upon our return, and in due time Messrs. Grow and Walrus were brought to trial, and I think they are still at work for the state.—N. Y. News.

SAW THE OLD BOY.

Who Finally Assumed the Shape of a Great Horned Owl.

"I once saw the devil," was the startling announcement made by G. W. Byrne to the Story Teller's Club, that was holding an impromptu session in the rotunda of the Lindell, says the Globe-Democrat. "At least I was as certain of it at the time as I am now that I was mistaken. When a boy of 9 I slept in a room several rods removed from the main house. One day I was particularly bad and the nurse expressed the opinion that the devil would carry me away before morning. She described him as an unprepossessing-looking gentleman dressed in black, with great fiery eyes and horns on his head. That night I lay awake watching for him. Presently I saw him. He was standing by the door, and, sure enough, he was dressed in black, had eyes like saucers and unmistakable horns. I dived down under the bed clothing and shivered with apprehension. I finally had to come up for air, and he was waiting for me. I was too frightened to cry, but I made a dash for the window and went through it without waiting to raise the sash. I rushed into my father's room in a hysterical condition and got the shotgun. He asked what I was going to do, and I replied that I was going to kill the devil, and I did it, too. I rushed up to the broken window, inserted the muzzle of the gun, aimed at the big, staring eyes, and pulled both triggers. His Satanic majesty came off his perch in one time and two motions. What was it? A big horned owl sitting on a peg where hung the dress coat of the hired man."

A FLY TRAMP.

"Get out of here!" shouted the proprietor of the restaurant, as he saw a tramp coming in the door. "Get out of here!"

"Wait, kind sir," said the tramp, "I want to make an offer."

"Don't want the floor scrubbed, tables washed, windows cleaned, or——"

"But, kind sir, I——"

"Get out," and his hand reached for a bottle, "you fellows and the flies are enough to——"

"That's it, kind sir, that's it."

"What?"

"The flies. I——"

"The flies?"

"Yes. You're troubled with flies?"

"Well I should say so."

"Well I'll tell you what I'll do. You give me a dinner——"

"No. Get out of here."

"Hush, kind sir, hush. Listen to me. Do not get angry. It pains me to see you——"

"Well hurry up and say what you want."

"Ah, kind sir, that is right. I can kill flies. Can kill thousands in a day."

"Oh you can?"

"Yes, kind sir, yes. Now if you'll give me a dinner, I'll show you how to kill every fly in this place."

"You won't break anything or muss——"

"No, I have a very simple way of doing it, a very simple way."

"All right then. Sit down at that table and I'll fill you up."

The tramp sat down and the proprietor gave him a good dinner. The tramp ate it slowly. When he finished he got up and said: "Now, sir, I am ready."

"All right," said the proprietor, "how are you going to kill them?"

"Catch some for me and I'll show you," said the tramp as he skipped out of the door.—Arkansaw Traveler.

PRETTY HOT TIME

At the Police Commissioners' Meeting Last Night.

Raitz and Spore Have a Lively Seance,

Then Doville Wants Dr. Whiteford's Place—An Officer Bounced and Another To Be Reprimanded—The Work of the Reform Board.

The hour at which graveyards yawn arrived last night before the board of police commissioners adjourned. It was one of the longest and most interesting sessions that have been held since the memorable meeting in May, and was characterized by partisanship on the part of the three republican members, by shrewdness and diplomacy on the part of Commissioners Stager and Potter, and by an exhibition of jealousy or vindictiveness on the part of Chief Raitz toward ex-Chief Spore.

When Doville played the fiddle Waring danced and did the parrot act with characteristic humility and regularity. Judge Sala, Dr. Reynolds and Sergeant Graham were on deck as usual to grace the occasion with their august presence.

The most interesting features came last. One of them was an attempt to summarily dismiss a faithful and efficient district physician simply because he was a democrat, and the other was a partial hearing of the Raitz-Spore embroglio.

After the Hewitt trial had been concluded, Doville moved that the office of Dr. Whiteford, the district physician for the Fifth ward, be declared vacant. This was the first move in a scheme to supplant Dr. Whiteford with Dr. Reynolds.

Waring seconded Doville's motion. Charlie Stager asked Doville why he wanted to fire Dr. Whiteford, and Doville replied, "because he has been there long enough."

The motion was then carried by a strict party vote, but Mr. Stager raised the point that as Dr. Whiteford was an efficient officer of the department he could not be dismissed without a two-thirds vote unless charges were sustained. It was, therefore, decided to postpone action until the opinion of the city solicitor could be secured on this point. Doville squirmed, but he had to acquiesce.

Dr. Whiteford, by the way, has been on the force for years, and is one of the most efficient district physicians, and the report of Health Officer Fisher for the month of September, which was read at the meeting, showed that Whiteford had made nearly one-third of the visits made during the month by the district physicians.

Mr. Waring said he had seen a good deal in the newspapers about teachers, on the police force and friction between Raitz and Spore, and he therefore wanted the matter investigated.

Mr. Stager wanted Spore cited to appear before the board at its next meeting, but Waring and Emmick thought it would be a good idea to proceed with the case then and there. Raitz said nothing, but went out and soon returned with Spore.

Spore was sworn and then he made a statement. He said that when he was relieved from duty as chief of detectives the only excuse Raitz gave for taking such action was that he (Raitz) intended to abolish the office of chief of detectives. In reply to a question Spore said that judging from what he had heard Judge Sala and Mayor Emmick say, he considered the indefinite charges of treachery a reflection on himself.

Raitz was next sworn. He said he wanted to ask Spore if he had obeyed orders. Sport replied that he could not remember ever having disobeyed them.

"Didn't you tell me," said Raitz, pointing to Spore, "that you didn't want any gambling places pulled without your knowledge?"

"No, sir," replied Spore.

"How about the gamblers you released?" asked Raitz.

"During fair week," answered the detective, "six out of town gamblers were arrested because it was known that they would steal if they were broke. Some of their friends came to me and said they would get the gamblers out of town if I would release them, and so I let five of them go early in the morning."

"Why didn't you consult me or Lieutenant O'Dwyer?" asked Raitz.

"Because I thought such a course was unnecessary inasmuch as the city would be better off if the gamblers were run out of town. We arrested then on suspicion so we could ship them out of the city. There were no charges against them except a general charge of suspicion."

That looks too thin," said Raitz, getting a little red in the face and a trifle hot under the collar. "I claim that Spore let these gamblers out for a purpose and to accommodate friends. He exceeded his authority in taking such action without consulting the chief of police. There are other charges against Spore. I am not ready to make them now, but I will put them in writing if the board will give me time."

At this point the hearing was postponed until the next regular meeting in order to give Raitz time to prepare written charges.

Hewitt Dismissed.

The trial of Officer Hewitt was a one-sided affair. He entered a general denial of the charges of drunkenness, but admitted that he had been indiscreet in using his revolver.

The testimony of four or five witnesses showed that on the night in question Hewitt was drunk in the saloon of John Heuzler on Lagrange street; that he raised a row there; that afterwards he halted a young man on the street and fired his revolver; that he drove a crowd of people into a house, and that after the patrol wagon appeared on the scene he rushed towards the people who had come out of the house and fired his revolver three or four times.

On motion of Mr. Potter the charges were sustained, and Hewitt dismissed from the force—Doville voting in the negative.

The charges against Officer Dwyer were sustained, on motion of Mr. Waring, and it was decided to reprimand him at the next meeting of the board.

The mortality report of Dr. Fisher for the month of September showed the total number of deaths to have been 105 from all causes, and the report of Secretary Durian showed that 413 arrests were made during the same month.

A communication was read denouncing as a nuisance the crematory of Daniel O'Hara, between Air Line Junction and the insane asylum. It was alleged in the complaint that the stench issuing from the crematory vitiated the atmosphere a mile away. Referred to the proper committee.

In response to a request from the authorities in Peru, Ind., it was decided to send an officer there on October 12 to assist in protecting the people from thieves during a republican barbecue. It was also decided to comply with a request from the Chicago authorities and send an officer there to assist in preserving order at the opening of the world's fair.

John J. Holland and Isaac Topper were elected patrolmen to fill vacancies.

In order to raise the salary of Health Officer Fisher, the office was declared abolished, the salary fixed at $1,500 per year and then Dr. Fisher was re-elected. The same course was adopted to increase the salary of Meat and Milk Inspector Brown to $1,000. Clerk Durian's salary was also increased to $1,000 a year.

Charges were filed against Officer Obenski, and he will be hauled over the coals at the next meeting.

Dr. Fisher complained that the houses at Nos. 406 and 408 Front street, and at 103 and 113 Oak street, East Toledo, were in a bad condition and should be torn down; also an old livery barn and office at the corner of Summit and Lynn streets. The health committee decided to look them over this morning.

F. W. Guese, of the Clerk's Mutual Protective association, appeared before the board and complained that certain meat markets were in the habit of remaining open beyond the usual hour Sunday mornings, and thereby depriving their employes of the leisure they were entitled to. Referred to Chief Raitz.

The resignation of Patrolman E. McLain accepted.

Geo. E. Carpenter, an employe of the city natural gas department, was granted special police powers.

Julius Glazier, a former detective of the Lake Shore, was allowed $15 per month for the time he served the city, and John Robinson, the present detective placed on the pay roll at the same salary.

Health Officer Fisher was instructed to hire two men for the sanitary force.

When the board finally adjourned it was 12 o'clock.

TO RESUME WORK.

Wyandotte Mills Start Under the Amalgamated Scale.

Detroit, Oct. 6.—The rolling mills at Wyandotte are to start up work on Friday or Saturday morning, and 200 men who have been out of work since June 1 will be re-employed. Secretary Garland, of the Amalgamated association, and others, members of a conference committee, have been in Wyandotte for a few days past. Superintendent Patterson, of the rolling mills, returned from Pittsburg yesterday afternoon and the scale was signed and work will be resumed as above stated. The mills have been closed since June 1 because the company would not sign the Amalgamated scale. No attempt was made to start the mills with non-union men.

HORRIBLY INJURED.

Wapakoneta, O., Oct. 6.—(Special)—Two brothers, named John and Jacob Roode and living several miles south of this city, were horribly bitten by a vicious boar yesterday. While taking a sow out of a pen, Jacob was attacked by the boar, who threw him down and bit him on the arm. John rushed to his aid, but was also thrown down and two large holes bitten in his leg and abdomen causing his intestines to protrude. He is in a critical condition, but Jacob is doing well.

ELECTIONS.

Wapakoneta, O., Oct. 6.—(Special)—There was a meeting here yesterday afternoon of the deputy state supervisors of elections of Auglaize county. The old precincts in St. Marys and German townships which are void on account of the repeal of last year's election law, were re-established as before. The clerk of the board was authorized to advertise for necessary printing and 15,000 election tickets, and the judges and clerks of election were appointed.

DURING THE PAST FIFTY YEARS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain; cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Sold by druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

BIG DAMAGE.

Columbus, O., Oct. 6.—Fire started in P. Huffman's grocery store in Johnstown, about 30 miles east of here, at 4 o'clock yesterday morning, and before it could be subdued half of the village had been burned, including the business portion. The loss will exceed $50,000.

LINCOLN'S RETURN.

London, Oct. 6.—United States Minister Robert T. Lincoln will sail for New York on the steamship Etruria next Saturday. His leave of absence extends until the latter part of November. He will be accompanied on his return by Mrs. Lincoln.

Belief that you "can't be cured" is a symptom of dyspepsia. Take Simmons Liver Regulator.

GOOD TIME MADE.

Vienna, Oct. 6.—Capt Tappertaskis passed the finish pole in Florisdorf at 20 minutes after 8 o'clock this morning. His time is 83 hours and 23 minutes, the best record yet made by a German officer. Lieut Hegel, who arrived just after Prince Frederick Leopold, made the trip in 84 hours and 25 minutes. The umpires gave the prince's time at 83 hours and 15 minutes.

ARRANGING FOR BAIL.

Pittsburg, Oct. 6.—The attorneys for the Homestead advisory committee, charged with treason, have arranged to have several of the accused men admitted to bail when court adjourns this afternoon. The men are not in jail nor have they been arrested. They will surrender themselves and go into court to sign the bail bonds.

The grand jury will not make their return on the charges against the Carnegie Steel company officials until late this afternoon and possibly not at all to-day.

DISASTROUS BLAZE.

Howell, Mich., Oct. 6.—A fire started in the cellar of Isaac Bush's general store at 1 o'clock this afternoon which destroyed that store, Hickey & Goodenough's dry goods store, McDonald's saloon and Monroe Brothers' dry goods store. The fire is still burning and the Lansing fire department has been asked for aid. The loss so far is about $50,000.

"COUSIN" OR WIFE?

Woman in Black Figures in Wood's Case.

Columbus, O., Oct. 6.—George W. Wood, the Toledo man arrested for stealing a pass-book of the Ohio Saving and Loan association, of this city, waived examination in police court, and was held to the grand jury in $500. An elegantly dressed woman, closely veiled, appeared at the police station and was allowed an interview with him in the corridor. The meeting was affectionate in the extreme. The chief of police was given to understand she was his wife, but Wood's attorney says she is his "cousin."

PASSENGER AGENTS.

Washington, Oct. 6.—The annual convention of the traveling passenger agents began at the Metropolitan hotel yesterday. About 75 were present. The meeting was called to order by President J. McCann. The morning session was devoted to the discussion of the next place of meeting and the admission of 28 new members.

FREMONT NOTES.

Fremont, O., Oct. 6.—(Special)—About fifty members of the local lodge of National Union go to Norwalk to-night to assist in initiating from forty to fifty candidates.

A new democratic weekly started in this city this week, styled Democratic Sentinel.

FOR FORGERY.

Columbus, O., Oct. 6.—Detective Kelly, of this city, arrested J. C. Spears, of Washington C. H., at the house of his brother-in-law, 238 East Lafayette street, on the charge of forging the name of Layman Steinhart, a wealthy Fayette county farmer, to a note for $135. Marshal McClellan, of Washington C. H., took the prisoner back to that place.

Mrs. Edward Myers.

Torturing Erysipelas.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES EVER REPORTED.

Mrs. Myers' Hand Amputated. Her Life Saved.

The case of Mrs. Edward Myers, of Athens, N. Y., furnishes an apt illustration of a woman's power of endurance. This lady had been treated for months in the usual way for Erysipelas of the hand, without benefit. Not until her hand had become a mass of putrified flesh, and her life despaired of, did she turn to Dr. Kennedy, proprietor of FAVORITE REMEDY, for help.

He at once informed her that he could save her life, but that it was impossible to save the hand—it must be amputated.

She received this terrible intelligence quietly, declined to take ether, stipulating merely to hold her husband's hand during the operation, and underwent the painful process without moving a muscle or uttering a groan.

Dr. Kennedy then gave Favorite Remedy, which drove the poisonous disease out of her system, cleansed the blood, and prevented the return of the disease, and she now lives and rejoices in her great deliverance.

Had Dr. Kennedy been called at any previous stage of the disease he would have at once prescribed Favorite Remedy and Mrs. Myers would not have had to undergo this terrible ordeal, as it would have saved her hand.

Are you reader, troubled with Erysipelas or any eruption of the skin, it may be Erysipelas in its incipient stage—don't trifle with it a moment, but use Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, it will cure you, for it is

IMPORTANT MEETING

Of the Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

New Songs and New Prayers Adopted.

Second Day of the Great Meeting in Baltimore—The Board of Missions.

Baltimore, Oct. 6.—This is the second day of the great national council of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States.

The clerical and lay delegates met at 9 o'clock in Emmanuel church, while the house of bishops assembled an hour later in the Parish house, Bishop Neely of Maine temporarily presiding over the latter body and Rev. Morgan Dix of New York over the house of deputies.

The proceedings of both bodies were preceded by brief devotional exercises.

At the last general convention held in New York in 1889 the committee on hymnal was instructed to revise its work and report to the Baltimore convention. Deep interest appertains to this report because the first committee rejected a number of hymns which had become endeared to the membership of the church by long usage.

The committee, with the addition of new members, has restored a few of the hymns and rejected some 20 which for more than a hundred years have been favorites with the clergy and laity.

Joseph Packard, a member of the commission on the revision of the Common Book of Prayer, says the report is ready for presentation.

In this revision the committee aimed to follow the text of the standard prayer book of 1884, and the sealed prayer book of the Church of England of 1849. Changes in the lessons from the scriptures are reported by the lectionary committee.

A movement has been inaugurated among the delegates to the house of bishops looking to a division of the diocese of Michigan, and the creation of an independent diocese for the upper peninsula of that state. The movement is actively fathered by Rev. G. Mott Williams, formerly dean of All Saints' cathedral, of Milwaukee, and upon whose shoulders it is expected that the new bishopric would fall in the event of its being created.

Prominent women from nearly every state in the union are participating to-day in the triennial general meeting of the Women's National Auxiliary to the Board of Missions of the Episcopal church. Prior to the convention the delegates attended the celebration of the holy communion at St. Paul's church, Right Rev. Wm. Paret, bishop of Maryland, being the officiating divine.

After the services the delegates marched in procession to Hazazer's hall, where the convention was called to order by Mrs. Helen Sioussat, president of the Maryland branch of the Women's Auxiliary, and who was chosen as permanent chairman. After a roll call by dioceses and addresses of welcome a lengthy report of the work accomplished by the auxiliary during the past three years was presented by Julia C. Emery, of New York city. After a brief recess for lunch the report was discussed at length, the speakers including Mrs. Brewer, of Montana; Miss Sibyl Carter, of White Earth, Minn.; Mrs. Pott, of Shanghai; Mrs. Gardner, of Tokyo, and Miss Malles, of Osaka. The report was then adopted and an adjournment taken.

THE ADVISORY BOARD

And Trustees of the Day Nursery Company

Held a Meeting and Considered the Feasibility of Becoming Land Owners.

The meeting of the advisory board and trustees of the Day Nursery company called at the Boody house last night, was for the purpose of talking over the matter of purchasing land for a building site.

The present quarters are all right, but should the Woolson Spice company, by whom the rental of the building is donated, wish to dispose of it, or utilize it for another purpose, they could hardly be expected to wait until the Day Nursery company had procured a home of their own.

Mr. Frank Cheney had made the following propositions:

One lot, 100x125 feet on John street, between Canton avenue and Union street, east side of the street and nearer to Union than Canton, for $4,000, of which Mr. Cheney would remit $500 as a gift.

One-half of the same lot, one-half the price named and one-half as great a donation.

A lease on the same property for five or ten years, the society to pay all regular and special taxes and 6 per cent. on the values given.

The trustees would like to get the nursery in the vicinity of Canton avenue, as so many of the mothers live there, and if they could bring their babies to a nursery near by, it would save them long and tiresome walks.

Some of the gentlemen thought the property held too high, considering the location, and others thought it would cost more to own the land and house than it would to lease.

Financial Condition.

The Day Nursery company is rich, in the fact that it is entirely free from indebtedness.

There is in the treasury $391, and an income will be derived from the life membership fee of $25 each.

Subscription lists will soon be gotten out, and with the money gathered in the charity boxes, and by the generous donations of people who wish to be voluntary givers, it is hoped to carry on the work.

Another plan, by which a goodly sum may be realized is a charity ball to be given at Pythian Castle, Tuesday evening, November 22.

Mrs. D. R. Locke will pay for the music, and $3 will be the price of tickets.

After discussing the financial side of the question thoroughly the building project was again taken up, and it was finally decided to do nothing for the present.

The present quarters are comfortable and they can stay for a time at least, and there need be no hurry about moving.

In the meantime, anyone with a feasible plan for raising money, or with a cheap building site for sale, can consult the management, for the matter of a permanent home for the Day Nursery is by no means given up.

The trustees are good business women, and they are cautious. They propose doing nothing hastily, but they are sure of success if they have, as they doubtless will, the hearty co-operation and aid of Toledo people.

NO STOCK IN THE STORY

Sullivan's Backer Discusses the "Drug" Fake.

Says John L. Is Making a Big Mistake.

Notes of the Ball Games and Standing of the League Clubs—General Mention.

New York, Oct. 6.—Charley Johnston, backer of John L. Sullivan, is not at all pleased at the statements insinuating foul play at the recent championship battle, which the big fellow is said to have made.

"I am surprised that John should have anything further to say regarding the defeat than what he said in New Orleans," said the Brooklynite. "He was defeated as fairly as any man ever was and these stories of drugging and all that sort of thing are enough to make an intelligent man tired.

"As a matter of fact, Sullivan was in better condition to fight that night in the Olympic club than ever before in his life. He said so himself. The reason he met his defeat was because he met a better man than himself in front of him.

"I can hardly believe that John would be foolish enough to say that he was drugged. If Sullivan was not fit how could he have fought nearly an hour and a half?"

"What do you think of his intention to take another crack at Corbett; would you back him?"

"I don't care to say whether I would back him or not," Johnston commenced, "but I will say that he is not displaying good judgment in talking of another match. The quicker he abandons that idea the better. People who did not see the fight have been filling John's head with strange notions. If he was drugged in New Orleans I wonder what was the matter in France?"

—::—::—

New York, Oct. 6.—Parson Davies is with Joe Choinsky at the Navesink highlands. He intends to remain with the Californian until the latter finishes his training for the contest of October 31. It is the opinion of the astute pugilistic manager this contest will be one of the most interesting that has ever taken place, at least in this vicinity.

"Godfrey is a very clever fellow," said the Parson, "and he can hit pretty hard. Still he will find in Joe a man who is certainly clever and whose hitting powers are wonderful, and if the Coney Island Athletic club is not crowded to the doors on the night of the fight I shall be very much mistaken. I expect Peter Jackscon over the 26th of this month."

"Does Jackson intend to challenge Corbett?" was asked.

"Jackson never challenges anybody," was Davies' reply. "While he will ask for a match with the present champion, I do not think that he will try to force Corbett through the newspapers. Peter is one of the fairest men I ever knew in my life. He believes in giving everybody a chance, and while Corbett really owes him a return match, I don't think that Peter will chase after it if he finds that the champion does not care to meet him in the ring."

HOME OF TERPSICHORE.

Opening of the Advanced Class To-Night.

Prof. Frank Kibbe has issued invitations for the opening of the advanced class in dancing, which occurs to-morrow evening at his dancing academy, 318 and 320 Summit street. A reporter found Prof. Kibbe at his academy this morning, busily engaged in completing arrangements for this pleasant occasion. The quarters are large and comfortable, and richly decorated. Handsome lace curtains and draperies adorn the hall windows, and the adjoining reception room is elaborately furnished with rugs, hangings, pictures, etc., which makes the place ideal.

Prof. Kibbe has spared no trouble or expense in making his academy more attractive and popular than ever. The class nights are as follows: Monday evening, for ladies only; Tuesday evening, for gentlemen only; Wednesday evening, regular class; Saturday afternoon, children. Private lessons are also given, daily by appointment. Classes are always open for beginners. To protect against undesirable intrusion all names have been registered to whom invitations have been mailed, and no one will be admitted otherwise, unless accompanied by one whose name is so registered. References are invariably required from those who desire to become members, who are unacquainted with Mr. Kibbe. All classes are under Prof. Kibbe's personal instruction, seconded by able assistants. Mr. Kibbe is a member of the National Association of Teachers of Dancing of the United States and Canada, has been a pupil of the Strassburg Dancing Academy and is fully qualified to obtain the best possible results in the art of dancing. Among the new dances Mr. Kibbe will introduce during the season are: The Harvard, Carlyle, Aurora, Cycle Polka, Comos and others. The orchestra engaged for the season comprises Arthur Trost, first violinist; Elmer V. Lott, cornet; Phil Uhl, clarionet, and Theo. Endert pianist. Miss Louise Mathias is class pianist. An enjoyable feature of the academy is the Friday night hops. Mr. Kibbe is to be congratulated upon his success in establishing an academy which is perfectly satisfactory in every respect. The season opening to-morrow evening will continue until May 26, 1893.

PROSPECTUS.

This company presents an unusual opportunity for investors to acquire an interest in one of the richest and most extensive gold mines in the world, in which not only are dividends payable quarterly in gold, of 15 per cent. per annum on all stock allotted on this subscription guaranteed them for five years, but also an agreement to redeem their stock at par within a definite period, at the expiration of two years, should they become dissatisfied with their investment, as hereinafter stated.

Hon. H. H. Warner of Rochester, N. Y., of "Warner's Safe Cure" fame, after spending several weeks in critically examing this mine, in which he was aided by some of the most experienced mining engineers of this country and Europe, is so thoroughly convinced of the extraordinary value of the property that he has expressed his readiness to place himself at the head of the undertaking, if so desired, and has also agreed to take 100,000 shares in the company.

In order to confirm the success of the enterprise, he guarantees to every shareholder to whom is allotted stock on this subscription a dividend of 15 per cent. per annum for a period of five years, payable in gold, unless a total of seventy-five per cent. shall have been paid within a shorter time.

He also further agrees to purchase at par in gold all guaranteed stock allotted on this subscription within the 30 days immediately following the expiration of two years from date of allotment of said stock, provided he receives said 30 days notice of such stockholders' desire to sell.

These provisions as to dividends and redemption of stock will be legally expressed and signed by guarantor on each certificate allotted on this subscription.

Besides his high personal standing and unquestioned responsibility, Mr. Warner agrees to deposit in trust with the Industrial and Mining Guaranty Company of New York bonds or stocks of railroad or industrial corporations to an amount necessary to provide for the full payment of the five years' dividends guaranteed on all stock allotted on this subscription; only such securities to be deposited as are dealt in on either the New York or London Stock Exchange.

In consideration of this guarantee the vendors agree to deposit with The Union Trust Company, of 80 Broadway, New York, stock of the Seven Stars Gold Mining Co. of the value, at par, of five hundred thousand dollars, to be held in trust by the said Union Trust Company until the guarantee given by Mr. Warner, as set forth in this prospectus, shall have been fulfilled.

This novel feature, while presenting an unusual departure in mining enterprises, is warranted by the fact that the value of the ore in the mine already exposed, surveyed and ready for removal exceeds the total amount of dividends guaranteed by $1,250,000. In addition to this it is estimated that an expenditure of $100,000 will disclose additional ore to the value of $3,000,000. It will readily be perceived that Mr. Warner assumes but little actual risk in his guarantee when the immense body of ore already developed and ready for removal is taken into account; the proposition being not unlike the cash reserves in a bank, subject to be drawn upon as occasion may require.

The magnitude of this property may in some degree be realized from the fact that, with a 5-stamp mill the output of the mine is at present about $1,000 per day. With 20 additional stamps, now in course of construction, the output should reach $5,000 per day. Allowing 300 working days to the year, this would bring the annual production of the mine up to $1,500,000.

OBJECTS.—This company is formed to acquire, without further expense or liability to subscribers, on Oct. 1, 1892, as a "going concern," and to provide a working capital of $200,000 to further equip and develop the Seven Stars, Hillside and Happy Jack Mines, comprising the following patented claims; Seven Stars, Happy Jack, Hillside, Camp, Contact No. 1 and Contact No. 2. Also the locations known as the Mesa, Elwood, Midnight, Mescal, Waterfall and Boulder.

SITUATION.—These mines are in the Eureka Mining District, Yavapai County, Arizona, 50 miles from Prescott, Arizona, although a comparatively new mining field, has already produced seventy-two millions of dollars ($72,000,000) in gold and silver.

WHAT IS THEIR RECORD?—This very rich gold vein was found by John Lawler on the evening of March 11, 1887. He developed the discovery into a great and very rich mine. While opening the property he broke ore of the value of $200,000, of which some $180,000 was sold. Since that time, the workings have been very much extended, and the mine has continued to improve in value and richness.

PRESENT VALUE.—The ore that has been removed was taken from near the surface, and is hardly noticeable in the present magnitude of the mine. Not only is this a virgin mine, but it is also a fully proved and very extensive property. Conservative estimates made by thoroughly reliable engineers place the ore in sight, ready to remove, at $2,000,000. It is considered that an estimated expenditure of $100,000 will disclose additional ore to the value of $3,000,000. The ore is now being mined, milled, treated and turned into bullion at an expense of only $7 per ton.

GOLD OR SILVER.—The Smelters' certificates of ore shipments show that half the value is in gold, the remainder silver. Recent developments, however, have uncovered ore bodies, in which the gold is largely in excess of the silver.

MINE IS DRY; NO PUMPING.—The mine is worked by levels from the side of the mountain. No hoisting machinery is required at present, and will not be for a long time to come, and no pumps. Another tunnel can be run 75 feet below the present lowest level and still be above the foot of the mountain.

EXTENT OF THE WORKINGS.—The underground workings, levels, cross-cuts, winzes, etc., are already 6,000 feet in aggregate length. Ore has been found to extend continuously for 2,000 feet along the lode. There is good ore in both ends of the mine; indeed some of the best ore is in the ends of the different levels, and also in the bottom workings. No limit is yet known to the extent of this great mass of ore.

ENORMOUS AMOUNT OF ORE.—The lode is a true fissure, and continuous. It has been followed for over two miles. Very rich ore has been obtained about 1,200 feet north of the present furthest workings of the mine, and it is certain that the ore extends that distance or more. Similarly, it is known to extend a long way south. Mr. Harrington Blauvelt, Mining Engineer, who made an examination of the mine at the time when developed only 1,800 feet in length, calculates, as is shown in his report, that for every 10 feet sunk on said length of 1,800 feet, ore to the value of $150,000 would be disclosed. On the generally accepted theory, sustained by the history of mines, the depth of ore in a mine extends to about one-half its length; this lode having been shown to extend north and south over two miles, a simple calculation will demonstrate the enormous quantity and value of ore that may yet be extracted.

SIZE OF THE PROPERTY.—This mining property covers 210 acres. There are also valuable dam sites, water rights, timber claims and a town site.

TITLE.—The titles are unquestionable, the Seven Stars, Hillside, Happy Jack and other mines being held under United States Patent.

EQUIPMENT.—The mines are provided in a very extensive manner with necessary buildings, such as Company's Trading Store, Assay Offices, Staff Quarters, Blacksmith and Carpenter Shops, Suitable Miners' Boarding House, Lodging House, Mill and Reduction Works, Engines and Boilers, etc.

WATER AND FUEL.—Boulder Creek affords sufficient water for running a 40-stamp mill eight months in the year. A dam can be built which will afford water for the entire year, while wood, both for fuel and other purposes, is readily obtainable. The company owns valuable timber claims, covering 180 acres.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The right is reserved to reject any subscription, or to accept it in part before actual allotment. If any subscription is wholly rejected, the amount deposited on application will be returned.

ALLOTMENT.—If the whole amount applied for be not allotted the amount paid on application will be applied on sums to become due on the allotment. Receipt will be given for all payments made, and the Company's engraved certificate will be delivered as soon as practicable after all payments have been made. Any instalment may be paid in advance under discount at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum. Failure to pay any instalment when due may forfeit all previous payments.

REGISTRATION.—All certificates will be registered and countersigned by the Union Trust Company of New York.

DIVIDENDS.—Dividends will be paid in gold, quarterly, from date of allotment, at the office of the Industrial & Mining Guaranty Company, No. 41 Broadway, New York, U. S. A.

QUOTATIONS.—It is intended to list the shares and apply for Stock Exchange quotations.

New York, September 24, 1892.

Four elaborate reports of eminent engineers, who have separately examined the property, also certificates of ore sales aggregating $178,000, showing an average yield per ton of $225.27, and which can be mined and turned into bullion at an expense of only $7 per ton, together with maps, prospectuses and all desired information, can be obtained of Industrial and Mining Guaranty Co., 41 Broadway, New York.

IN A SERPENT'S COILS.

"I have been in some pretty tight places," said David Mann, a member of the Munchausen club, who was reciting some thrilling adventures in the corridors of the Laclede. "When a boy of 16 I left home between two nights and went on a cruise to India. Returning, we had aboard the agent for a menagerie and quite a collection of beasts and reptiles that he was bringing home for the great moral show. One night a boa constrictor measuring 18 feet, slipped his cable and went up the mainmast without anybody suspecting his escape. I was ordered aloft for some purpose, and in the darkness ran right onto the monstrous reptile. As my hands touched the great folds I came near falling out of the rigging. I did not know what it was, but I instinctively felt that it was something terrible. His snakeship did not leave me long in doubt, however, for he took a turn around me, lifted me from my feet and held me aloft as a sportive elephant might a small boy. My head was within two feet of the monster's mouth, and I felt as if every bone in my body was snapping. Yell? The rebel yell was a whisper to the ones I gave. His snakeship began to descend with me, evidently intending to make a meal of me on the deck. The mate flashed a light and me and when he saw the situation, was so frightened that he rushed off and locked himself in the room. The boatswain was made of sterner stuff, however, and he came to my assistance with the carpenter's axe, and nearly cut the snakeship in twain at the first blow. He dropped me and I got a fall that nearly finished me. The boa dropped to the deck and went writhing up and down, lashing things right and left, while the crew pumped musket balls into him, despite the tearful protest of the agent, who insisted that he was worth $2,000 laid down in New York."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Round trip, $1.70.

Emperor William gave expression the other day to his high sense of justice. Count Hammerstein-Loxten had conducted the negotiations with the duke of Cumberland which ended in the restoration to the duke of a large property sequestered by Prussia since the year 1866. In recognition of the count's zeal and success his majesty presented him with his likeness and wrote under the picture the following motto: "Right, after all, remains right."

WEDDED.

Fremont, O., Oct. 6.—At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon Miss Anna Hafford, a prominent society young lady of this city, was married to Harry Garrett, a prominent druggist of Urichsville.

SUICIDE WAS ORDERED.

Young Morehead Puts a Bullet in His Head.

He Was a Well-Known Philadelphia Boy.

Placed His Mother's Picture Upon His Breast Ere Bidding the World Farewell.

New York, Oct. 6.—The Philadelphia Suicide club has added one more to its dead. J. Barlow Moorehead, nephew of G. C. Thomas, of Drexel & Co., Philadelphia, a young man of wealth and a talented actor, was found dead in bed, with a bullet-hole in his left breast, in his boarding-house at No. 56 West Thirty-fifth street. He was manager for Garland Gaden, author and star of the "Young American" company, which was to open an engagement in Philadelphia next month. His father, Charles H. Moorehead, is a rich citizen of Bridgeton, N. J.

Young Moorehead spent Sunday night with Nestor Lennon, of the "Black Crook" company, and did not leave him until 1 in the morning. "We drank a good deal of wine," states Lennon, "and he said that he never felt better in his life. Just before saying good-night, however, he turned to me with a serious look, and slipping two diamond rings on my middle finger, said, 'Never take them off as long as long as you live,' he long as you live. Remember what I tell you. Never take them off?' I laughed. He said good night, and I went into the hotel. Then it struck me that all might not be right. I resolved to make Moorehead explain himself, and ran out of the hotel to the street. About a block away I saw my friend talking to a cabman. I shouted and started to run toward him. He either did not hear me or did not want to, for before I'd gone a dozen steps he jumped into the cab and the driver whipped up and was off."

At 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon, just 12 hours later, Garland Gaden, called by appointment at his room. Alarmed at no response, he put his knee to the door and snapped the lock. There, on the bed, his revolver by his side, was stretched Mooreland in his night clothes, his face ghastly pale in death. A picture of his mother lay on his body close to the wound.

Five letters, sealed and addressed, lay on the table. They were addressed to G. C. Thomas, Drexel & Co., Philadelphia; Mr. Lennon, Coleman house; Cabby 841 New York city; Charles H. Moorehead, Bridgeton, N. J., and the coroner of New York. The letter to the coroner read:

"1:45 a. m., October 3, 1892—Coroner of New York city—Dear sir: I have committed suicide as per club. Please give verdict to such effect and oblige, yours truly, J. B. MOOR.

N. .—My proper name is J. B. Moorehead, of Philadelphia. G. H. Thomas, of Drexel & Co., Philadelphia, is my uncle. Please notify him.

"J. B. MOOREHEAD, JR."

"Now, I remember," exclaimed Lennon, turning white and gasping; "he told me something last night about a club he belonged to. He said it was a suicide club, and that he joined it in Philadelphia or New York. I don't remember which. I paid but little attention to him. He's spoken of it before, hasn't he?" asked Lennon of Gaden. "It seems to me that he was fooling," responded Gaden. Both men refused to say another word on the subject.

"Moorehead was a young man of wealth," said Gaden. "He inherited a fortune from his grandfather. Moorehead had graduated as a physician, and had traveled much. He was the projector of several theatrical ventures in Europe, while he was abroad, in all of which I believe he made money. When I first met him he was a very heavy drinker. He went to the Keeley Institute in Philadelphia for treatment about seven months ago. When he came out he was thoroughly cured, he told me, and would never drink another drop as long as he lived. One day he told me that if he ever found himself in the power of whisky again he would blow his brains out. For months after that he never touched a drop of anything. About three months ago, however, I noticed that he was drinking wine again, but he never drank to excess."

Moorehead was reputed to be worth half a million. He left a will in which it is said he remembered Gaden royally.

In return for the loan of $15 from Actor Lennon of the Black Crook company, Moorehead left him two diamond rings worth $4,000. On Saturday night he gave Cabman No. 184 a check for $100 for a ride.

Into the Great Democratic Fold.

Four Indiana Republicans Come Out Squarely for Grover Cleveland.

New Albany, Ind., Oct. 6.—Four prominent republicans denounced their party and declared for Cleveland before 600 people here. The first convert was Geo. Kipple.

Washington Atkins, the republican candidate for county commissioner in 1890, then took the stand and denounced the republican party as a party of fraud and deception. Frank Norton, superintendent of the New Albany rolling mills, next stepped forward and said that he left the republican party because it failed to fulfill its promises to the laboring man and to the soldier, and when it had a man in the pension office who tried to fulfill the promises to the soldier Harrison kicked him out.

J. W. Hall then came forward and said: "I have been a lifelong republican. I cast my first vote for Lincoln and the last one for Ben Harrison and protection. And the re-election of Mr. Harrison means starvation to the laboring classes."

WITH POISONED WHISKY.

Desperado Penfield Compelled to Swallow the Death Draught.

Boise City, Idaho, Oct. 6.—George Penfield, who had a record of having killed 17 men, and who once followed Mark Twain all over San Francisco waiting for a chance to "pot" him, has died in awful agony near Grouse creek from drinking poisoned whisky, a victim to his own cupidity.

Two stories are told of his miserable end. One account says that he wished to obtain a rich placer mine owned jointly by himself, Thomas Joyce, William Brimlett and Theodore Bragg, and that he "fixed" a bottle of whisky with strychnine to poison his associates. But his associates found out the trap Penfield laid for them, and they made him drink from the fatal bottle at the points of their revolvers. He drank, ran away to escape, but death claimed him when he had only staggered a few yards.

Another story was, that in the dusk he searched for his own bottle, took up the one containing poisoned whisky, instead, and after drinking, expired in agony.

Kindling Wood Taken From a Horse.

College Corner, O., Oct. 6.—Ten days ago a blooded horse owned by Oscar Stout, collided with a pointed fence board. The board went a foot into the animal's breast and the horse's death was hourly expected. To-day it was found that a portion of the board three inches wide and eight inches long remained in the animal's body. The wood was extracted and the horse will live.

LOOKOUT FOR SCHEMERS AND TRICKSTERS.

There are clothing quacks as well as medical quacks, dishonest dealers as well as dishonest lawyers, look out for them. When you see an announcement in print to sell clothing at less than cost, or less than half price and all that sort of thing, look out. In 99 cases out of 100 its a fraud. Honest clothiers do not advertise for people to come and buy at figures that make every sale a loss, especially at this season of the year, when trade is just opening. This kind of advertising is only practiced by the Fagins and Shylocks of the clothing business, who buy up a lot of cheap, miserable, shoddy stuff, that is made up amid the filth and squalor of the poverty stricken tenement districts by pitiable specimens of suffering humanity, whose very touch engenders disease, perhaps death. This is the kind of clothing the ignorant classes are persuaded by glittering falsehoods to buy of clothing charlatans. There are more dishonest schemes practiced upon the unsuspecting public under the guise of business, than are ever dreamed of—invariably by the imposters in the trade who call themselves business men—when you want to buy clothing or any other commodity, you had better go to some respectable merchant. You are always safe to shun the man who is ashamed to advertise his business over his own name.
